Lone Gunman Holds Up City Hall

DUCKS GLACE A LA BEACON HILL

Feathered philosophers at Goodacre Lake, Beacon Hill Park, took to unusual conditions today like skates take to ice—with one exception. When landing after short flights, they found lack of brakes handicap, were inclined to bump into one another in long, swooping collisions. Ducks—and people—can expect more of same tonight, with an official low of 30 at Gonzales, 22 at Patricia Bay. Cold is expected to moderate slowly, with increasing cloudiness during weekend.—(Times photo by Halkett)

PILOT DODGED SUÉZ MISSION, RAF, CHARGES

NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters)—An RAF bomber pilot was accused today of deliberately crippling his plane on the ground to avoid carrying out orders during bombing of the Suez Canal zone two months ago.

FO Dennis Raymond Kenyon, 24, will be tried by a general court martial Jan. 28 on a charge of causing the undercarriage of his Canberra bomber to be partially retracted before takeoff.

The British command here said: "When under orders to carry out a warlike operation in the air" Kenyon did not "use his utmost exertions to carry such orders into effect."

He was under orders to take off from Nicosia and fly to Egypt.

Twelve Saved; Gales Ground CNR Car Ferry

PORT AUX BASQUES, Nfld. (CP)—All 12 passengers were rescued from the grounded cargo-passenger ship Cabot Strait today after dory-rowing fishermen, braving raging winds, followed a line from shore to the helpless ship.

CNR officials in St. John's said all passengers were "definitely off the ship."

High winds continued to pound the 2,000-ton CNR-operated vessel late today as she lay high on a sandbar, about five miles west of this Newfoundland terminal port where the ship was heading in an early-morning blizzard.

The railway official said crew members, not directly engaged in the ship's operation, would likely be rescued by the dorymen later today.

Other crew members were expected to remain aboard. There were confusing reports about how the ship was faring on the isolated sandbar.

E. H. Healy, district marine agent, said there didn't appear to be any immediate danger. But in Montreal the CNR said the ship was in "critical danger."

80-MPH BLIZZARD

Mr. Healy said winds were gusting to 80 miles an hour and carrying heavy snow when the ship, which runs between here and North Sydney, N.S., on a daily schedule, plowed into the sandbar.

The government-owned ship is operated by the CNR for the transport department.

Reports from the scene said passengers were rescued by fishermen who brought them to shore in small dories.

Because of shallow water and shoals the ship's crew wouldn't risk launching lifeboats.

The Cabot Strait, built in Scotland in 1947 and put into the North Sydney-Port Aux Basques service the same year, is 261 feet long.

She is resting about 100 yards from the rocky shore, but reports say it is nearly impossible to see that far because of the blizzard buffeting her.

The captain, who appealed for small rescue dories after his ship grounded, did not mention possible damage to the vessel.

This was the first major accident on the North Sydney-Port Aux Basques run since 1942 when the Caribou was sunk by a torpedo, claiming 137 lives.

The Cabot Strait is one of two ships operating on the run.

U.S. Plane Explodes, 12 Killed

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP)—A four-engine U.S. Air Force weather reconnaissance plane crashed and exploded into flames shortly after its takeoff from Eielson Air Force Base early today. There were no survivors.

The WB-29 planes normally carry a crew of 12 on their weather flights.

The weather plane was one of the converted models of the Boeing B-29 Superfortress of the Second World War.

PM Would Welcome Visit by Macmillan

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada will invite Prime Minister Harold Macmillan to this country "if and when" the new British leader accepts an invitation to visit the United States, Prime Minister St. Laurent said today.

"I hope his engagements would make it possible for him to accept," Mr. St. Laurent said in the Commons.

U.K. Won't Be Satellite Of U.S.—Macmillan

LONDON (Reuters)—Prime Minister Macmillan said tonight Britain does not intend to part from the United States but added, "We don't intend to be satellites."

Macmillan, who became premier last week after the resignation of Sir Anthony Eden, said he is sure the U.S. does not want Britain to be a satellite.

He added: "The stronger we are, the better partners we shall be. And I feel certain that as the months pass by we shall draw continually closer together with mutual confidence and respect."

NO ELECTION

The prime minister also made it clear his Conservative government intends to stay in office for the three years remaining in its term. He said: "There's going to be no general election."

He said that he believes history will justify Britain's action in invading Egypt.

Difficulties, such as the shortage of gasoline and oil, now facing the country were the price of that action "but the price of inaction, the price we would have had to pay for letting

NEW YORK (AP)—The body of maestro Arturo Toscanini, musical genius beloved by millions for more than two generations, will lie in state for public viewing today and Friday.

Toscanini, 89, died in his sleep Wednesday morning at his home following a stroke.

There will be a solemn requiem mass in St. Patrick's Cathedral at 10 a.m. Saturday. Later his body will be flown to Italy for burial in the family chapel in Milan.

Gets Away With $770

An armed robber held up the treasury office at Victoria City Hall at 12.40 p.m. today and escaped with $770.

Victim of the hold-up was relief cashier Miss Freddie Scherbaum, 2814 Parkview.

She said he walked into the treasury office—to the right of the main entrance to city hall—and shoved a handgun, a revolver or pistol, across the counter.

He said softly, "Just keep quiet."

He shielded the gun with a newspaper.

Miss Scherbaum scooped out bills, later found to total $770, and gave them to the man. An additional $455 in bills and $50 in change was in the cash drawer.

The man left city hall by the Pandora Street entrance.

He was described as of slight build, wearing a light green or beige mackinaw jacket, and a grey hat.

The 30-year-old cashier, of German descent, has been in Canada only a few years, and a city employee for three years.

'Cashier Waved Arms . . . Man Walked Out'

Val Speed, stenographer, and Lynda Barker, machine operator, told The Times they saw the cashier waving her arms above her head. "It didn't mean anything to us," said Miss Speed.

"Next thing we saw was a man walking quickly out of the office."

Ralph Wherry, taxidermist at 629 Pandora, was returning to his store from a coffee shop at about 12.30 when he noticed a man running across Pandora Avenue from the City Hall, and heading toward Broad Street.

"I thought nothing about it—only that he was running to catch a bus," Mr. Wherry said. "I couldn't describe him. My only impression is of a man running at an angle across Pandora from the City Hall toward Broad."

Last holdup in Victoria was across the street just a week ago Monday in the Royal Bank of Canada, when some $1,400 was taken. The bandit was apprehended in Seattle and pleaded guilty.

Frank Robinson, 1039 Bank Street, assistant lands commissioner, was 20 feet from the cashier's window, but knew nothing of the holdup until the

Winter Strikes Hard Blow At Maritimes

TORONTO (CP)—Eastern Canada today continued its unequal struggle with the week-long cold siege, despite increased traffic in storm centres.

The Maritimes cringed before gale-force winds which brought more than a foot of snow to some regions and the weatherman warned more extremely cold air is on the way. Southern Ontario got some relief although overnight temperatures remained below zero. Only the prairies saw any real thawing, however, as warm air continued to flow down from the Arctic.

Federally-Run Tech Schools Aim of Fairey

UNESCO Laxity Charged By MP

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA—In a speech which ranged from federal aid for technical schools to the internal workings of UNESCO, Dr. Frank Fairey, Liberal MP for Victoria, came up with two major proposals in the House of Commons Wednesday.

The former deputy minister of education in B.C., and director of technical education from 1938 to 1945, said in the Throne Speech debate:

1. The federal government should some day take over the complete job of technical education, including construction of several big technical colleges.

2. The administration of UNESCO should be overhauled because it is now slack, and lacks efficiency.

Dr. Fairey was a member of a Canadian delegation that attended the ninth general conference of the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization, held last year at New Delhi.

Labor Minister Lyle Wickes, whose department is responsible for apprentice training in B.C., said today he welcomed increased federal aid for technical education, but was cool toward the proposal that Ottawa take over technical training.

Dr. Fairey said Canada should not continue to rely, as it had, on immigration to provide skilled personnel.

SIGNIFICANT

The proposal to grant federal aid to technical education was welcomed by Dr. Fairey as a significant item in the Speech from the Throne.

He said he had urged in practically every speech he had made in the Commons that something be done for that class of workers who should comprise the skilled artisans.

There was a great gap in the Canadian training program between, on the one hand, secondary education and on the other, university education where those who are entering professional ranks are trained.

INADEQUATE

In between these groups Canada had large numbers—who the bulk of its population—who were ultimately to provide the trained workers, the skilled workers or artisans. Training facilities for them, up to now, have been extremely inadequate, he said.

While he welcomed the large grants that were being given to the universities it was his hope that when the sum of money which is to be assigned to technical education is announced it will be equally generous.

Dr. Fairey devoted the major portion of his speech to a report on the November conference of UNESCO.

The Canadian delegation, he said, believed that the administration of UNESCO could stand considerable improvement, but at the same time the Canadians recognized the difficulties involved in bringing about such improvement.

WATERED-DOWN

They proposed at the conference that a firm of business consultants be called in to examine the procedures in the secretariat. What was finally passed was a "watered-down" resolution suggesting that a number of business experts be borrowed from a number of the member states, to carry out a survey job on the secretariat, Dr. Fairey said.

There are 80-member nations participating in UNESCO, and this posed a difficult problem on reaching agreement.

U.S. Firms Confirm Gas Import Talks

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Two meetings have been held on a compromise plan for importing natural gas from Canada, but no decision has been reached, John F. Merriam, president of Northern Natural Gas Co., Omaha, said Wednesday. No further meetings have been scheduled, he added.

The compromise proposal involves Tennessee Natural Gas Co., its affiliate, Midwestern Gas Transmission Co., Northern American Natural Gas Co., and People's Gas, Light and Coke Co. Northern, American and People's offered the compromise in an effort to resolve a dispute over proposals by Northern and Midwestern to bring Canadian gas into the same markets in some of the northern states. They opposed Midwestern's move on the grounds it was an invasion of their markets.

A Federal Power Commission hearing, in which there are more than 100 intervenors, has been started, but now is in recess.

Merriam said that under the proposal Northern, American, People's and Tennessee would share equally in the ownership of Midwestern, which would become an independently managed transmission firm. The compromise would provide that Northern, American and People's would purchase all the gas imported by Midwestern, and would distribute it to their present markets as well as to the markets proposed to be served by Midwestern in the same area.

Merriam said Northern, which had been seeking for several years to import Canadian gas, had made a contract with Trans-Canada for the gas and an FPC hearing was held in 1955 on its application for authority to import gas.

HEARING STALLS

Trans-Canada was unable to deliver gas in the year contemplated by Northern and the hearing was put over. Subsequently Merriam said, Midwestern and Trans-Canada made a contract and Midwestern applied for FPC approval. He said the compromise was proposed in an effort to resolve the conflict and speed up the delivery of gas.

42 YEARS IN MOVEMENT

Barrie New Leader Of Labor Council

Robert Barrie, for five years president of the old Victoria Trades and Labor Council, Wednesday edged out former Victoria Labor Council secretary Percy Rayment to become the new VLC president.

The vote was 59 to 37. Mr. Barrie, who succeeds Jack MacKenzie, is president of Federal 128, Chemical and Explosives Workers, James Island. Aged 54, he has been associated with the labor movement 42 years. His home here is at 4320 Douglas.

Five were nominated as president but all but two, including Mr. MacKenzie, declined. Successor to Mr. Rayment as secretary is A. W. Toone, president of Local 276, Sheet Metal Workers' International Association.

Tribute, Presentation to Retiring Secretary

Mr. Rayment, secretary since 1949, has left to become full-time business agent for Vancouver Island Civil Employees' Association.

Retiring president, Mr. MacKenzie, in making a presentation of a television set to Mr. Rayment, said "the prestige we (the labor movement) enjoy in this area is due in a large degree to him."

The new president, Mr. Barrie, for the past year has been first vice-president of the 10,000-member VLC.

Elected first vice-president was E. T. Staley, secretary, provincial council of carpenters, who got 52 votes as against his opposition, Ed Haw, IWA secretary, who garnered 36 votes.

There were 96 eligible voters in the Labor Temple meeting representing 44 affiliated organizations.

Mr. Haw drew 50 votes to top Mrs. Betty Graham of the office employees union, who received 46 votes, to take the post of second vice-president.

Elected to head committees were: Legislative, Percy Rayment, with 50 votes; organization, Earl Allen, laborers, with 71 votes; credentials, C. M. Preston, boilermakers, by acclamation; public relations, James Moffat, carpenters, by acclamation; education, Cliff Parker.

U.K. Reported Ready To End Conscription

LONDON (Reuters) — Speculation that Britain is planning further major cuts in defence spending—including a reduction of manpower—became firmer today with reports that conscription will be abolished and replaced with the U.S. system of selective service.

The Daily Herald reports as a fact that "selection by ballot on the American pattern" is one of four new methods of call-up which the new cabinet is considering.

The Conservative Daily Mail banner lines a report that "conscription in its present form is to be abolished," and the new form of selection "is expected to be on the U.S. pattern." The Herald, which supports the Labor party, comments that "service chiefs now have admitted to the cabinet that the two-year call-up is putting more men into uniform than the armed forces either want or can make use of."

Time Fuse Tax Cuts Proposed by Thatcher

(From Times News Services)

Ross Thatcher, the Saskatchewan Liberal who wants to slash government spending, now is asking for cuts with a controlled time fuse.

The member for Moose Jaw-Lake Centre said that immediate tax cuts might not be wise because they would put still more money in the pockets of consumers at a time when there are many signs of "creeping inflation" in Canada's booming economy.

He suggested the government use part of its 1956-57 treasury surplus—expected to range between $300,000,000 and $400,000,000—to back up deferred savings certificates which could be issued to taxpayers and redeemed in three to five years.

Mr. Thatcher, who bolted the CCF party in 1955 to sit as an independent until joining the Liberals last year, said that in 1956 Canada probably did better economically than any country.

Some method should be found to give the public the benefit of tax reductions on a postponed basis, after part of the surplus has been used to reduce the $11,300,000,000 national debt, Mr. Thatcher said.

Govt. Wins Confidence Vote 135-69

Mr. Thatcher spoke on the sixth day of the throne speech debate—a catch-all speaking bee—shortly before the Liberal majority defeated by a vote of 135 to 69 a CCF motion of non-confidence in the government. The motion criticized the fact that the speech from the throne contained no proposal for a national health insurance program.

The Liberals, supported by the three Quebec independents, voted against the CCF motion which was supported by the Progressive Conservative and Social Credit parties.

Mr. Thatcher suggested the government might set up a board which would co-ordinate all efforts to check inflationary tendencies and help make the economy more responsive to the Bank of Canada's tight-money policies.

One step he proposed was a restriction of current record credit buying through a mandatory down payment of 25 to 33 per cent on such large purchases as automobiles.

The government might also consider freezing its present number of civil servants and check its demands on the available supply of manpower and

No U.S. Request for Newsprint Probe

The government has made clear it will launch no anti-combines inquiry into the big newsprint industry, maintaining that new $4-a-ton price increases don't necessarily mean collusion.

Justice Minister Garson said a uniform price rise might be suspicious in times of a declining market—but not when the market is strong when such increases may be explained by ordinary market behavior.

This was Mr. Garson's reply to Tuesday's query by Stanley Knowles (CCF—Winnipeg North Centre) as to whether the government would investigate the price increases for price-fixing.

There has long been concern in parliamentary quarters and in the United States Congress as to whether Canadian newsprint manufacturers, leaders in world newsprint production, have been getting together on prices.

On Jan. 2, Abitibi Power and Paper Company announced a $4-a-ton increase and since then four other companies, including B.C.'s Powell River Co., have announced increases of the same amount. A similar $4-a-ton increase was made a year ago.

Under the latest boost, effective March 1, the price of newsprint delivered in New York will be a record $134 a ton.

One U.S. senator has suggested that the Canadian and U.S. governments launch a joint investigation of the industry. On this point, Mr. Garson said:

"No requests for an inquiry have been received by my department from any U.S. authorities."

Various federal trade officials have concluded there would be serious repercussions in the Canadian economy if anything happened to injure the industry.

Mr. Garson observed in connection with suggested investigations that the director of his combines branch, T. D. MacDonald, had power to initiate inquiries of his own if he suspected collusion.

But Mr. MacDonald had not felt an investigation was warranted on the basis of current price increases.

In the Senate, Opposition leader John T. Haig predicted that a federal general election will be called Monday, June 17, the most prominent date mentioned by the speculators.

Senator Haig, opening the Throne Speech debate in the Upper House, predicted Parliament will be dissolved April 6 or 7, leaving only about three months for Parliament to deal with the government's legislative program.

OTTAWA (CP)—English-born Colin Cameron made his first public excursion into the French language to tell French-speaking MPs they shouldn't insist on every body being bilingual.

St. Laurent Gives Tart Reply To Query on Dulles' Statement

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent Wednesday declined to give the Canadian government's viewpoint on a reported statement by U.S. State Secretary Dulles regarding American relations with Britain and France in the Middle East.

Howard Green (PC-Vancouver Quadra) asked the prime minister in the Commons about news dispatches from Washington reporting that Mr. Dulles said the U.S.

could not go into partnership with Britain and France in any Middle East plan.

He then read this quotation attributed to Mr. Dulles: "I cannot think of anything that would more surely turn the area over to international communism than to go in there hand-in-hand with Britain and France."

Mr. Green asked whether "that amazing statement" is also the view of the Canadian government.

If not, would the prime minister "disassociate Canada from any such statement."

Mr. St. Laurent replied, with some tartness: "Canada does not have to be disassociated from statements made by foreign ministers of other nations, and if that were the view of Canada it would be stated by the secretary of state for external affairs of Canada (Hon. L. B. Pearson)."

Mr. Green then asked whether

Mr. St. Laurent doesn't think Canada should take some stand on the questions "if for no other reason than to further co-operation between the United Kingdom, France and the U.S."

"Canada," replied Mr. St. Laurent, "is not required to take a stand on every newspaper report, that aims to be sensational, of things said outside Canada by the statesmen of other countries."

Macmillan Shortens Sail

MR. MACMILLAN HAS BEGUN his leadership in Britain with a grave and significant decision. The reserve forces of navy, army and air force are being cut down to save money and counteract, to some extent, the economic consequences of the Suez debacle. But it seems certain that these small savings are only the beginning of a larger process. They would hardly be worth while otherwise.

Apparently Mr. Macmillan, having studied the British economy as chancellor of the exchequer, takes a hard and realistic view of its dangers.

According to the British press, he supported the Suez intervention at the beginning but insisted on a cease-fire when he realized that the closing of the canal would confront Britain with an oil shortage and a serious foreign exchange problem.

While Britain has been able to secure about 75 per cent of its normal oil supplies, and its immediate exchange problem has been solved by loans from the International Monetary Fund and the Export-Import Bank, nevertheless the whole structure of British industry has been shaken by recent events.

It is in the light of these events and of still larger considerations that Mr. Macmillan is now cutting down the nation's military expenditures. He wishes to save materials and manpower, desperately needed in the civilian economy. His next move is expected to be some reduction in Britain's forces in Germany, unless the West German Government will agree to pay a large part of their cost. Other economies in the armed forces seem likely.

Apart from these immediate financial calculations the new British Government has to consider a national situation drastically altered by the unprofitable adventure in Suez.

Mr. Macmillan and the men around him have been bitterly disillusioned by the refusal of the United States to back their armed intervention. They are also disillusioned with the United Nations. Consequently their future calculations seem to be based on two premises.

After the Warm Welcome

THIS WEEK VICTORIA WELcomed its largest group of immigrant Hungarians with cold winds and warm hearts. The reception of four score men, women and children who have chosen this city for a new start in life should have convinced them of Victoria's friendliness.

But the greeting, genuine as it was in sympathy for those who have escaped the Communist terror, cannot remain an isolated gesture. These are people who have left behind the cherished possessions of a homeland. They have brought with them only their skills, their desire to live and raise their families in a land of freedom and their eagerness to do their share of the nation's work.

A generous people here will doubtless care for their immediate needs. Their reception into Victoria homes is proof of that point. But they require more than that. They must feel wanted, must be given a chance to work at the jobs for which they are most suited. They must be accepted and helped to understand Canadian ways.

At the moment, they are our guests. Their hope must be for a more permanent association with the nation and this city. Our duty does not end with a handshake.

Blackout in Washington

IN THE CATALOGUE OF THE State Department's blunders a high place must be given to its prosecution of three American newspapermen who recently entered Communist China.

The passports of these journalists have been canceled. The Government apparently intends to punish them under the Trading with the Enemy Act. While the legal aspects of this case must be left to the courts, the Government's policy is clearly in error and plays straight into the hands of international Communism.

Since the cold war began the United States has never ceased to protest against the suppression of information in Communist countries, including China. Now the United States is itself suppressing information and condemning Americans who try to provide essential information to the American people. For what could be more essential at this time than information about actual conditions in China?

The Curtain Falls

ARTURO TOSCANINI, THE Italian poor boy who became a legend in the musical world, has bowed to the final curtain call. Wherever hearts rise to the magnificence of the symphony, there will be a touch of sadness today at the passing of a great artist.

To Toscanini the symphony orchestra was a magnificent instrument. He had mastered it as few others of his craft. From it he drew the full power and vitality it possessed. His stamp of excellence was clearly apparent in the performance of those musical organizations he directed and inspired.

Except among his intimates, there can be little anguish over his death. Arturo Toscanini had lived a full and rewarding life, active in his chosen role well beyond the pale of his span. To him came the accolades of his position, well-earned by the genius, energy and perseverance he had shown in a lifetime.

Audiences beyond counting, in concert halls and by home radio, have rendered him their homage. He was one of the decorations of the first half of our century.

Time to Pull the Rug Out

LOOSE ENDS

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

Not Our Cup of Tea

IT is difficult to understand why anyone should object to a profitable tea house in Beacon Hill Park, as proposed by some eminent civic statesmen. But unfortunately this city contains many enemies of progress and some enemies of tea.

A large majority of the population seems to prefer stronger drink, despite all the Government's noble attempts to discourage them, but at least a tea house would be a good start. Larger measures of progress can come later.

The important thing is to break down the present spurious sanctity of the park. Once its virginity has been removed, once its austere and horrid silence is relieved by the cheerful sounds of commerce, once we hear the tinkle of teacups, we may be sure that the tinkle of glasses and all the other desirable improvements will follow.

AS some of the city fathers are wisely saying, the park is at present a total economic loss when it could so easily be made a source of revenue and a boon to the taxpayers.

Any economist must be filled with gloom as he observes this large stretch of vacant land producing absolutely nothing but a few trees and flowers, none of them sold for profit.

The other day I made a rough survey of the park and concluded that the trees, if cut down and sold to the lumber industry, would be worth several hundred thousand dollars, or some five millions on the civic tax rate. Yet the doddering, old-fashioned gentlemen at the City Hall have not the intelligence to see this obvious source of revenue.

MUCH of the park doesn't even produce trees. It is empty, sterile, utterly valueless for anything. After careful measurement I conclude that these worthless spaces could hold a hundred tea houses at least, pay the City Council's salaries, and leave enough over every year to build an extra pond for small boys' toy sailboats; and these ponds, too, if properly managed, with a small admission fee, would yield a substantial income.

Any practical man must be shocked to observe the present almost criminal waste of space, the prodigious acres of vegetation and mere green which could be covered with splendid structures of concrete, all rented at a handsome charge per square foot.

NOTHING lives in this ghastly vacuum but a few ducks and swans and they are not even sold and eaten when it would be so easy to turn them into food and profit. Large areas are given over to the production of roses, if you please, when they could grow edible vegetables or valuable opium.

It would not be quite so shocking to an economist if anyone enjoyed the park, for enjoyment, though uneconomic and contrary to the better principles of business, can be excused as a necessary social safety valve. The mob must have its bread and circuses. But in this park it has neither.

The only bread visible hereabouts is brought by mad octogenarians to feed the useless swans while the public, deprived of circuses, can only lie around on the grass or gaze idiotically at the expensive blossoms grown at the taxpayers' expense.

NO one enjoys the park when you can't even buy a cup of tea and must go all the way across the street to secure nourishment or all the way down town to get a glass of beer. What has happened to the commercial imagination of the City Hall?

In my young days we had a higher type of men in municipal government, guardians of the civic treasury always vigilant over the taxpayers' money, ever alert for new opportunities to enrich the community.

I can remember when civic statesmanship reached its highest peak in 1920 A.D. a memorable year, and the City Council deliberated earnestly on a plan to use the hides of stray dogs and cats in the pound as the basis of a great tanning and leather industry.

To be sure, that promising project failed, the unprogressive elements being stupidly opposed to it, but it indicated the sort of powerful leadership we used to enjoy in those days. Today nobody cares about progress. The animals in the pound serve no useful purpose. In the park there is nothing to do but smell the flowers and the fumes of a few passing automobiles.

NOW, it is all very well for the historians, purists and other impractical dreamers to say that Sir James Douglas set the park aside and forbade the invasion of commerce. What, one may ask, did Douglas or any man in those ignorant, barbarous times, know about modern civilization? How could they foresee the need of civic revenue?

How could they anticipate our great tourist industry, based on the legend that Victorians spend all their lives drinking tea? And how are we to keep that profitable myth alive and extract the last penny from the enchanted visitor if we can't even allow a tea house in the park?

DOG TALK

Every newcomer to Britain should be provided with a dog on arrival. Dogs are one of the things, like the weather, crickets, horses and flowers, about which British people cannot help talking to one another and to strangers from outside. I can stand in the market place in Leicester with my dog, and people will almost form a queue to talk to the dog and to me about the dog. It is all nonsense about the reticent British; once they find an excuse for talking they will talk away to their heart's content.

FROM PARIS

By JOSEPH ALSOP

The Allied Atmosphere

(First of Joseph Alsop's dispatches as a world-roving reporter)

EVEN a few short, transitional days in this lovely city have provided the answer to at least one major question. The question was: "What is the present atmosphere of the Western Alliance?"

The answer can best be summarized in two short ugly words: "It stinks."

It would hardly be necessary to state this unpleasant truth, if Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' recent trip to the NATO conference here had not been followed by so much happy, soothing burling in Washington. Official sources there after gave the country the impression that all the damage done by Suez had now been undone. The rent fabric of the West, we were authoritatively told, had been patiently but successfully knitted up again.

Alsop

Agreement Rare

But the real state of affairs at the end of the NATO conference is better suggested by a well-authenticated anecdote concerning one of the last meetings. At one point in the usual row about the communiqué, French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau wished to support the Dulles' view. His way of doing so was to announce sarcastically:

"I must confess that this is one of the rare occasions when I find myself in agreement with the secretary of state."

The mood that this anecdote reveals is apparently not one-sided, either. Undoubtedly, the French and British are being foolishly self-indulgent, in giving such free rein to their detestation for Secretary Dulles and above all in blaming the enormous misfortunes they have done so much to produce almost wholly on the actions of the United States.

Not Very Grown Up

But there are also excellent reasons to believe that the American policy-makers are not behaving in a very grown-up way. Or rather, they seem to be behaving like misunderstood females in the most dolorous sort of bad play. It was an open secret, even before this reporter left Washington, that very high policy-makers were charging that skeptical analyses of the administration's course in the Suez crisis had been inspired by foreign intrigue—in itself a strong sign of policy-makers' neurosis.

The nonsense, it now turns out, has by no means stopped there. According to another report which may well be denied but is quite certainly authentic, the state department actually took formal action in the basis of the neurotic theory outlined above. The American Embassy in London was positively requested to complain to the Foreign Office that the British Embassy in Washington was disseminating misleading reports about American policy. "Call your dogs off," was in effect the request.

It can be imagined what the American reaction would be, whether or not the complaint was justified, if the state department received such a message about an American embassy abroad from a foreign embassy in Washington. On top of this humiliating episode, there now come ominous rumblings from Washington about alleged secret documents in the possession of the state department which, if revealed, might cause the French and British governments to fall. Rightly or wrongly, Paris and London unanimously attribute these implied threats to Secretary Dulles himself.

It is a simple, practical fact that this sort of thing has got to be stopped, abruptly, completely and pretty sternly, if the Western Alliance is to be restored to any sort of working order.

Good Beginning

The conditions for a new start have already been created by the Eisenhower declaration on Soviet aggression in the Middle East. It is no substitute for a serious, detailed Middle Eastern policy, to say that you will not permit the Soviets to commit the kind of overt aggression which they have no intention of committing. It is at best a fair substitute for American adherence to the Baghdad Pact, which was so urgently requested by the Turks, Iraqis and British, and was finally refused by the Washington policy-makers. But the Eisenhower declaration is a very good beginning all the same.

The resignation of Sir Anthony Eden, tragic though it was in many ways, may also help to clear the air. But there are two requirements for a real new start. On the one hand, the petty backbiting and self-righteous self-justification has got to stop on both sides. On the other hand, the old relations of mutual frankness and freedom of communication on all Western policy questions, which are now totally broken off, must be rapidly resumed at all levels. Since America is the leader of the West, it is up to the American policy-makers to make the first show of large-mindedness and generosity. Otherwise the Western Alliance may well openly founder in the rough year ahead. (1957, New York Herald Tribune Inc.)

As Our Readers See It

Tragedy

The resignation of Britain's Prime Minister, Sir Anthony Eden, is a tragedy of the first order, for in spite of the venomous attack on Sir Anthony's Middle East policy, the fact remains that he is a world statesman of the highest order. His knowledge of world affairs is unequalled by any other statesman in the service of his Sovereign, his country, and to the world at large.

Seldom, if ever, has such a statesman been subjected to such vulgar abuse as was heaped on him by large sections of the American press, by Eisenhower, Dulles, and their chore boys. Our own Prime Minister must bear a large share of responsibility for the events which have finally resulted in this unhappy situation.

Mr. St. Laurent displayed his anti-British bias in his infamous letter condemning Britain's intervention in the Middle East, also by his foolish and untrue remarks in the House of Commons, and on other occasions in which he has gone out of his way to unjustly criticize Britain's intervention.

Lester Pearson's statement in which he intimated that Britain's action almost led to the break-up of the Commonwealth means only one thing, that some members of the St. Laurent cabinet were anxious for Canada to withdraw from the Commonwealth. None of these men are fit to hold the positions they now unfortunately occupy.

Eisenhower, Dulles, St. Laurent, and their chore boys, have acted disgracefully in their condemnation of Britain. However, the present approach by the United States to the Middle East situation demonstrates the wisdom of the stand taken by Britain and France.

The world would not be in the sorry mess it is today, if the United States and United Nations had dealt fairly with Britain and France.

Cancerous

My letter of Jan. 8 on the strike situation and its root cause, attributed to Communism, has brought criticisms suggesting that this evil be fought on the surface merely by watching and checking, otherwise it would go underground.

University of Victoria

I fully agree with the Mayor in emphasizing the need for a full scale university here in Victoria. In view of the lack of classroom, laboratory and housing facilities at UBC I would say that now is the opportune time to press for this project.

At the rate at which our population is increasing, and due to the rapid expansion of industry in this province in which professionals in all fields will be required, the university enrolment will more than double in the next 10 years.

If B.C. is to forge ahead and take a leading part in Canadian affairs it will require every trained man we can muster, and to hold our young men here we should have the facilities in this province to educate and train them.

It is here pointed out that the eastern provinces have several universities each, which provide not only for their own educational commitments, but also enrol many students from other provinces with lesser educational advantages including B.C. This has the adverse effect of drawing promising young men away from this province.

Victoria is an ideal city to establish

Evidently my critics don't know that Communists are arch masters of underground methods.

Friends of mine who were present during the take-over and occupation of China by the Reds say in effect that Communism is a deadly cancer gnawing at a nation's vitals. Everybody knows that cancer patients will go to almost any lengths to be cured. Communism is our national cancer that has so seriously ravaged Canada's vital economy and political institutions, as the Gouzenko and other investigations attest. Its operations (nine-tenths underground) strike at the very roots of our national life. The infiltration that caused the downfall of every Soviet satellite is precisely the same being practised in Canada today, say those conversant with Communist tactics. Their agents are in every plant and installation of the slightest importance; at the top levels of western nuclear research plants; in every strata of society including religious bodies.

What would a doctor do for a cancerous patient? Would he not purge it root, stem and branch, if possible. Canada is suffering from cancer.

He Helped Them, Too

Many tributes have been paid to Mr. E. E. Winch, but they are incomplete unless mention is made of his work for animal welfare.

He was a pioneer in the movement for humane trapping, being for many years president of the Association for Protection of Fur-Bearing Animals, and lived to see their objective of a painless trap in sight. He formed the New Westminster branch of the SPCA, and was chairman of the recently formed Animal Welfare Council. He worked for the improvement of the lot of captive animals, in particular the Stanley Park bears, and he spoke constantly of his great dislike for the raising of game birds for hunters' sport. He was a friend of the friendless, and all those who cannot plead for themselves, and his loss is irreparable.

Who is there in the House now who will consider the cause of dumb animals worth fighting for?

a university of its own with its beauty and serenity and quiet atmosphere. There are less distractions here for the student and therefore it is more conducive to study.

Furthermore, it would create a considerable economic boost for this city, creating a demand in all living facilities, and also providing cultural and artistic outlets in many phases of the arts and sciences.

It might also be pointed out that a university in Victoria is an economic boost for the province as a whole in that if we are to expand our industry we must have trained men, and if training is not available then expansion lags as a result with disastrous effects to the whole economy.

Finally, as far as the finances are concerned, what about a piece of that $600,000,000 tax surplus which the federal government is seeking to invest? So far, the only taker is "The Bay of Fundy Tidal Project," and that only uses up a mere $50,000,000. So how about striking out now for our own university while the iron is hot?

ANXIOUS.

The Problem

I AM always faintly startled by those magazine articles with peaceful pictures of parents and children discussing a family problem and coming up with the perfect answer.

Our family can't even answer the questions which arise from that astounding course known as Health and Personal Development. They stimulate us mentally, without a doubt, but the answers are far, far beyond us.

Take last weekend, for instance. "How much have I cost you since I was born?" asked a 15-year-old as I was struggling with a shirt that is an absolute brute to iron.

"Search me. Millions," I said, and wrestled with the shirt sleeves. "Quit fooling, Mum," said another son. "This is homework for H and P.D. He's got to have the answer."

"Well, I don't know it," I said. "I've never assessed any of you kids in terms of dollars and cents. You've cost me headaches and heartaches and a few grey hairs, but I can't possibly figure it out in cold hard cash."

"What about my clothes and food?" he asked.

"I honestly don't know," I said. "Dad and I have been so busy raising you all, that we have never figured out the cost per child. Anyway, I couldn't possibly go back 15 years and figure out all the diapers and safety pins and baby stuff. Of course there was the kitchen window when you were a little older. Three times in a single year you broke it."

"And the rear window of your old roadster, Mum," said an older brother.

"That was you," said the 15-year-old. "You did it with Doug Brown's BB gun, and I got blamed for it."

"What about the veranda rail?"

Ruth

"Well, you backed the truck up and ran over a bike. And that cost more than the veranda rail."

"Boys," I said. "Let's stick with the flights of 1957 instead of dragging up the crises of all those years ago."

"Put down $1,000," said Older Brother. "No!" I said. "It can't have been as much as that."

"It's a good round figure," he said. "He's got to put something, Mum. He can't just leave it blank."

"Question 2," said Worried Student. "How much a year do I cost you now?"

"No idea," I said.

"To make it accurate," observed my husband, "we should deduct from that what you are worth to us."

We never did find the answer to that one. It was lost in arguments about who is always slithering out of chores.

And, of course, I've laid this on a bit. But my thoughts and sympathies have certainly gone out to other parents who may have struggled with these same questions.

Just for the fun of it, I'd like to ask a few questions.

Isn't it rather disgusting to measure human relationships by the yardstick of the dollar sign?

Does this sort of knowledge really prepare a student for "Wise Parenthood"?

Can any lively family settle down to a discussion of this kind without seeing the humor of it?

Did the person who drew up this course ever give a thought to the parents who had to struggle with the answers?

Do the teachers who correct this homework really think the answers are anything more than the wildest hit-and-miss?

Health and Personal Development! Indeed! I just can't take it seriously.

YOUR HEALTH

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

Drug for Alcoholics

Dr. Walter C. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation.

A while ago a number of printers working in a press-room began to complain that they couldn't any longer enjoy their beer. When they drank, their faces would get red and swollen, their ears would get red, their noses would become stuffy, they would feel warm in the face, and they would get drowsy. Evidently, they were being affected by some chemical that they were using. Soon, Drs. Wm. Lewis and Louis Schwartz, of Washington, D.C., reported that after much detective work they had found the trouble was due to the use of an "anti-skimming" compound in the inks used—especially in yellow ink. It was found that men at the plant where the ink was being made were also having trouble. The chemical at fault is known as a butyraldoxime.

Dr. Alvarez

Since I have mentioned this drug and Antabuse—another substance that makes a man uncomfortable when he drinks—many women have asked where they can buy these chemicals. They want to sneak them into their husband's food or drink. As I tell these women, I doubt if this procedure would work well. About all that would happen would be that when the husband found out what had been done to him, he would be very angry. So far as I know, no one is going to get over alcoholism unless he very much wants to, and will make great efforts to do so. As that wise old Roman, Seneca, said, "It is part of the cure to wish to be cured." If a man wants to take one of these drugs in order to punish himself if he falls from grace and takes a drink, that is all right, but the man must elect to do this. His wife or his doctor cannot do it for him.

ANIMALS INHERIT TEMPERAMENTS

I doubt if psychoanalysts would ever have advanced their weird theories of the causation of mental troubles if they had only known more about the great inborn and inherited differences in the personalities of animals. For instance, in the famous Yerkes Laboratory in Florida in which many chimpanzees have been reared and studied psychologically, it has been noted that from birth they have decidedly individual personalities and temperaments. Some are affectionate and good-natured, while others are not; some are unusually intelligent, while others are a bit stupid; some are easy-going, while others are belligerent and demanding.

I was just reading of work done in 1944 by Frederick C. Thorne, who bred an unusually shy and unfriendly Bassett bitch to four males of different breeds. Of the 59 puppies, 43 grew to be unusually shy and unfriendly animals. Only 16 could be taught to be friendly in their approach to strangers. I once bought a pedigree Persian cat that was so bad-tempered and so inclined to sink her claws into my hand that I had to give her away to a breeder.

This breeder told me that my cat had inherited her bad temper from her father and grandfather. They were notorious in cat-breeding circles.

In 1896 Sir Francis Galton wrote about three generations of "lunatic cats." Recently, Dr. Roscoe B. Jackson reported the breeding of a strain of bad-tempered and quarrelsome mice. There is a strain of small Siamese fish in which the members are always attacking each other. Strains of animals have been bred in which many of the individuals suffer from convulsions, suggesting epilepsy.

As Galton wrote some 70 years ago, it is strange that while we men and women are perfectly willing to study the laws of inheritance of health and disease in animals, and willing to accept and use to great advantage all the facts of observation on genetics in animals, many of us balk when it comes to facing the mass of facts that show that these laws hold good for man also. Any interested person can go to a big library and find many scientific journals and books, all filled with facts of observation to prove that many of the diseases of man are inherited according to the well-known laws, worked out during a century of breeding plants and animals.

Sometimes one of these laws can be very encouraging as when it assures a man in a disease-ridden family that, since he does not carry the taint, he cannot transmit it to his descendants, and hence, his children and grandchildren are safe (unless they get the trouble from "in-laws").

SYNOPSIS—The intense ridge of high pressure that lies over B.C. has weakened a little since Wednesday but is still strong enough to protect B.C. from any storm invasion at least for another two days. However, skies will not remain clear in all areas for low cloud in interior valleys and at points on the coast will continue to increase gradually.

It will remain cold in all areas though temperatures will not drop to extreme values. In fact many areas will likely be just a little milder tonight and Friday.

Sharpest Decline Hits Base Metals

Speculative mining and western oil issues drew most of the interest as prices were irregularly lower today on the Toronto Stock Exchange. The base metal group showed the biggest index drop, more than a point.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP)—Flax and rye showed the best activity in trade today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange.

Export houses and international interests were the buyers in flax and some foreign sales were noted. Prices were steady.

There was little feature to the oats and barley trade.

Lakehead prices for class two, IWA and domestic wheat were up one-eighth of a cent from Wednesday.

It Wasn't Like This On the Duke's Manor

By BILL RAYNER

Out at Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club Wednesday night, the Duke of Beaufort would have had trouble recognizing the game named after his home town.

At the beginning of the first matches of the four-day annual Victoria badminton championships, even the players weren't sure why they were there.

For the temperature in and around the hall was uncomfortably close to freezing and players, officials and spectators wandered around in voluminous folds and robes or sat huddled close to the TV set in the upper lounge.

It should be mentioned here that the Duke of Beaufort comes from Badminton, in the Cotswold hills, Gloucestershire, and that the game of badminton derived its name from his manor in the neighborhood of 1873.

Approximately 2,000 years before that it was played in India and China, presumably under a different name, and the game is sometimes called battledore and shuttlecock. Which is akin to calling table tennis ping pong.

Anyway, things soon got back to normal at VLTBC, Wednesday. Ladies doubles matches predominated on the opening draws, and the girls didn't take long in bringing the game back in proper focus.

After starting off their games wrapped up snugly in sweatsuits against the chill, they soon became warmed to the excitement of the contests and started, uh, shedding.

GOOD REASONS

Soon, it could again be seen just why badminton and tennis are such pleasurable sports for the idle viewer: the flashing of tanned legs and arms; those crisp white shorts and blouses, all finally in evidence despite the incongruity of hard-drawn breath frosting the air.

There were five draws Wednesday night as tourney officials began "weeding out" the hopefuls in time for the finals of all five divisions, which are scheduled for Saturday, cold or no cold. Champions will be named in five open divisions.

Harvey Hurd, who won the Victoria junior badminton crown last week, served notice Wednesday night that he is ready to make a strong bid for the senior city crown.

Hurd, who will enter the Canadian open and junior shuttle tournaments at Kitchener, Ont., in late February, downed veteran Dunc Tolson, 15-8, 15-6.

Biggest surprise of Wednesday night's competition was Mel Chapman's 15-6, 15-6 triumph over Warren Bell.

Early draw follows:

7:00 p.m.—B. Hunt vs. M. Chapman; R. Lindal vs. J. Wells; V. Lindal vs. E. Smithers; J. Crampton and D. Radford vs. J. Folz and A. Kay.

Douglas and G. Ruzette; G. Lane and J. MacDonald vs. W. Stone and P. Price and C. Clark vs. M. Hunt and R. Hunt.

9 p.m.—B. Atkins and B. Salmon vs. J. Manning and H. Dewar; M. Knox and J. MacDonald vs. J. Crampton and B. Ford; B. Clarke and E. Cooley vs. M. Smith and J. Folz; R. MacMurtrie and G. Christopher vs. J. Looney and R. Harris; C. Clark and R. LeQuene vs. L. Tolson and R. Silberman.

SAWCHUK PULLS VANISHING ACT AFTER QUITTING

Has Anybody Here Seen Terry?

The strange and sudden retirement of Boston Bruin goal-tender Terry Sawchuk, which has mystified the National Hockey League, today became a question of "where," rather than "why."

Sawchuk apparently has vanished off the face of the earth.

Often a temperamental player, Sawchuk became sports number one enigma today as no one, not even his baffled team-mates, knew where he was.

Sawchuk, who suffered a recent illness that forced him out of action for two weeks, told Bruin officials Tuesday night in a terse announcement that he was quitting the team, in the middle of a red-hot NHL race.

He said only that he was suffering from shaky nerves and that he could be of no further help to the team.

Following his announcement, Sawchuk vanished.

Milt Schmidt, Bruins' fire-eating manager, announced that if Sawchuk did not show up for Wednesday morning's practice, he would automatically suspend himself for life.

He did not turn up.

Sawchuk's retirement was even stranger in that, only Monday, it was announced that he had been chosen goalie on the NHL all-star team for the first half of the season.

Schmidt said Wednesday, "I told him that if he didn't show up for practice, I'd suspend him. I think we've gone far enough with him."

WANTED

"If he's sick, he can take a rest. The club will pay for everything—hospital, doctors and treatment. But he refused to see a doctor. How are we to know whether he's sick or not?"

One report said that Sawchuk had gone into seclusion in a Boston boardinghouse. However, he was not found there. Another report said he was en route to his home at Milford, Mich., with his wife.

Team physician Dr. Edward R. Browne said Sawchuk seemed depressed after returning to the Bruins following his illness, a blood condition. Browne said the 26-year-old goalie's nerves were bothering him. Team-mates said Sawchuk often spoke of his "timing being off" after his illness.

Browne and Schmidt both said that Sawchuk had said about quitting, "I don't care about the money. I'm through."

Sawchuk's Boston team-mates, while puzzled over his disappearance, seemed irked at his behavior. They said he often played his best games when complaining about "not feeling sharp." They also realized that without Sawchuk, they must face a tougher than ever battle for survival in the race for the league race.

Schmidt announced that unless the Sawchuk situation is cleared up, Norm Defelice, a 23-year-old spare goalie with Hershey Bears of the American Hockey League, will be between the posts for Boston tonight.

N.W. Makes Cougar Job Confusing

Turn on Canucks; Stamps, Regals Win

Victoria Cougars can be pretty well impartial this weekend when they continue their drive toward the last playoff spot in the Western Hockey League's coast division.

Cougars, presently in last place, once had their eyes on the New Westminster Royals, and whumped them, 7-1, Monday night just to prove it.

But the Royals went and made things a bit confusing Wednesday night at home by slapping down the Vancouver Canucks, 6-3, and moving into a second place tie with them.

Both teams are now five points ahead of Cougars, who meet Vancouver Friday and New Westminster Saturday.

In other WHL games Wednesday, Brandon Regals moved temporarily to Saskatoon to bounce the touring Seattle Americans, 3-1, and Calgary Stampers won their fourth straight by a 6-3 decision over Edmonton Flyers.

Royals Take Cue Taking a cue from their reception at Memorial Arena Monday, when the Cougars had scored three goals in the first five minutes, Royals opened up fast against the Canucks and held a 3-0 lead after the first period.

Rookie Denny Olson and Arlo Goodwin with two goals each; Max McNab and Gordie Fashaway scored for the Royals. Wiggy Wylie, Hugh Currie and Earl Johnson replied for Vancouver.

Fashaway picked off his own rebound in the third for a 5-1 lead, only to have Currie chop it down to 5-2 with a blue-line drive. Olson for Royals and Johnson for Canucks late in the period rounded out the scoring.

Both teams played without the services of key personnel in the crucial game. Royals were missing veterans Blinky Boyce and Ollie Dorohoy, while Canucks had Gord Hudson and Jackie McLeod on the injured list.

RIG CROWD

At Saskatoon, Regal owner Jim Piggott was given cause for thought by the 5,000-plus house that turned out for the game. The Regals were originally in Regina last season, and moved to Brandon after poor fan interest. Now, interest is lagging in Brandon and Piggott scheduled his Saskatoon game as an experiment.

The fans responded beyond his expectations.

Rising to the occasion, the Regals broke a three-game losing streak and moved to within five points of first-place Edmonton. Bob Chrystal, Howie Milford and Les Colwell notched a goal apiece for the Regals, while Gordie Sinclair and George Senick scored for Seattle.

At Calgary, another crowd of over 5,000, biggest midweek gathering of the season at the Corral, watched as the Stampers gave away a 1-0 lead to the Flyers in the first period, then galloped back to score three goals in each of the second and third periods.

Sid Finney set the pace for the winners with two goals. Ray Barry, Enio Schilizzi, Archie Scott and Mid Houghton scored the others. Terry Melynk, Cummings Burton, and Len Lunde tallied for Edmonton.

Finney scored the winning goal in the third period.

At Seattle, the Cougars won their fourth straight by a 6-3 decision over the Flyers.

At Vancouver, the Canucks won their fourth straight by a 6-3 decision over the Flyers.

At New Westminster, the Royals won their fourth straight by a 6-3 decision over the Flyers.

At Portland, the Blazers won their fourth straight by a 6-3 decision over the Flyers.

At San Jose, the Sharks won their fourth straight by a 6-3 decision over the Flyers.

At Los Angeles, the Kings won their fourth straight by a 6-3 decision over the Flyers.

At Dallas, the Stars won their fourth straight by a 6-3 decision over the Flyers.

At Chicago, the Blackhawks won their fourth straight by a 6-3 decision over the Flyers.

At St. Louis, the Blues won their fourth straight by a 6-3 decision over the Flyers.

At Philadelphia, the Flyers won their fourth straight by a 6-3 decision over the Flyers.

Habs Take Five-Point Lead As Moore Bullies Chadwick

Penalties Hurt Leafs; Detroit Meets Boston

By The Canadian Press

If Dickie Moore's goal-getting brings him any extra monetary reward this season, he should split it with Ed Chadwick, Toronto Maple Leafs netminder.

Vic High Grabs 2-2 Soccer Tie

Fourth Game Forced In Prep Boot Final

Victoria High School buckled down in the second half Wednesday on its home ground to tie Oak Bay High, 2-2, and force a fourth game in the senior high school soccer final.

Fourth contest will be Friday at 3 p.m. at Carnarvon Park. Prior to Wednesday's draw, both Vic High and Oak Bay had notched victories in the original best-of-three series.

Only the strong goal-tending of Robin Barnes saved Vic High from extinction in the first half Wednesday. With the Oak Bay forwards capitalizing on every Vic High mistake, Barnes was forced to make several fine saves.

Only man to beat him was Jamie Costain, whose neatly-placed penalty shot gave the Bays a 1-0 half-time lead.

VIC HIGH RALLIES

After the intermission, the Vics came alive and soon tied it up with Gary Leibel finishing off a Ron Pedersen-Lance Rutherford-Leibel passing play by drilling the ball into the net.

Costain proved his right to being the best offensive player of the day, however, by taking a pass from Brian Cornell and putting his Bays ahead, 2-1, with his second goal of the game.

Tom Collett finally forced the replay for Vics by booting the ball past Oak Bay goalkeeper Basma Johnston from a scramble. At Esquimalt, Wednesday, Esquimalt High turned in a mild upset by holding Vic High to a 0-0 draw in the second game of the junior soccer final.

Vics, who had lanced to a 5-2 win in the first game of the best-of-three series, were favored to wind it up in two straight, but could not solve the tenacious Dockers.

And Esquimalt almost pulled out a win of its own, just failing to get the ball across the opposing goal-line in the final seconds of the second overtime session.

Third game of the series is tentatively set for Wednesday at Vic High.

Bears Grab Share of AHL Lead

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP)—Hershey Bears flashed a steady passing attack to whitewash Springfield Indians, 4-0, in the American Hockey League Wednesday night, moving into a tie with Providence for first place.

Al Nicholson scored on a long shot at 14:48 in the first period. Larry Zeidel fired the second and produced bedlam on the ice.

Don Simmons, Springfield goalie, fell in making a save and was struck on the face. Blood gushed from the wound as Zeidel fired the loose puck into the net. Eddie Shore, Springfield coach, leaped across the boards and went in the direction of the officials. Players intervened and Shore then helped carry the injured goalie to the dressing room. Simmons returned to the ice after treatment.

The first period was halted at 15:31 and when the teams returned to the ice Arnie Kullman scored.

Bob Solinger scored the final goal in the third period.

REGINA (BUP)—The Saskatchewan Roughriders today announced they have signed Sam Wesley, a 23-year-old Negro halfback from Oregon State for a tryout with the team.

OH, I SAY THERE...! NO GAMESMANSHIP?

LONDON (AP)—The English Lawn Tennis Association Wednesday warned players to cut out the cutups on the court and speed up play or face possible disqualification.

S. B. Reay, association secretary, told reporters: "Spectators have complained that warming up periods have been too long, of the length of time taken to change ends, of players who fall down and do not get up immediately and of gamesmanship."

"It leaves a very bad feeling and can only do harm to the sport."

Fiji Rugby Side May Try Vikings

By DOUG PEDEEN

There may be a refreshing touch of the South Seas at Macdonald Park Saturday.

If the Arctic weather retreats long enough to make rugby play possible, a team of sea-going Fiji Islanders, bolstered by one or two Australians, will tackle Victoria College Vikings at 2 p.m.

One Victoria Rugby Union first division match is also scheduled at Macdonald Park. Oak Bay Wanderers and JRAA, each undefeated in league play, are due to clash at 2.45.

It will be the second Canadian appearance for the Fijians, who had their first experience with snow as they dropped a decision to University of British Columbia at Vancouver last Sunday.

Crew members of the SS Suva, which is taking on a cargo of lumber at Vancouver Island ports, the visitors are coached by Australian Dick "Candy" third officer of the Suva.

Lack of conditioning hampered their chances at Vancouver, but workouts at Macdonald Park this week should help the Fijians regain the form that gave them three victories in four matches against first-class clubs in Australia, Japan and Fiji.

Rugby Union officials announced today that Victoria's representative side will see its first action of the season in an exhibition match against the Vancouver Teps at Macdonald Park, February 3.

The match will help both clubs in their preparations for the annual McKechnie Cup intercity series and will be watched closely by selectors of the provincial side which will meet England's famed Barbarian Rugby Club.

Barbarians will play at least three games in British Columbia, including one at Victoria, late in April.

Senators Offer Job to Brenner

SALEM (AP)—The Salem Senators of the Class B Northwest League Tuesday offered Bill Brenner the job of managing the baseball team in the coming season.

Brenner, former player-manager who finished the 1956 season as acting manager of the Seattle team of the Pacific Coast League, was expected to announce his decision at Seattle today.

Brenner formerly was manager at Lewiston and Vancouver. He became pitching coach at Seattle last year, then took over for manager Luke Sewell after Sewell was relieved of his duties. Seattle since has hired Lefty O'Doul as manager for the coming season.

The first period was halted at 15:31 and when the teams returned to the ice Arnie Kullman scored.

REGINA (BUP)—The Saskatchewan Roughriders today announced they have signed Sam Wesley, a 23-year-old Negro halfback from Oregon State for a tryout with the team.

PUSKAS UNDER FIRE

Soccer Doping Charge Denied

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—Hungary's soccer star Ferenc Puskas was under fire in the German press Wednesday for allegedly charging that Germany's world champion football team of 1954 was doped when it defeated Hungary 3-2 for the world title.

According to German newspaper reports, Puskas' memoirs now are being published in a French soccer magazine. According to extracts published by the Frankfurt evening paper, Abendpost, the former Hungarian army major said:

"When the final match for the world title was over I went to the dressing rooms of the German team. Most of the German players were stretched out on the floor, some of them had vomited. There was a strong odor of pharmaceutical drugs in the air. Later it was said that the Germans had taken drugs."

The German world cup team shortly after winning the title was plagued by a series of jaundice cases, which at one time put six players out of action.

The German Football Federation ordered an investigation after German newspaper reports hinted that some doping had taken place.

The investigation revealed that players had been given the usual shots of dextrose "but no doping drugs whatsoever."

Germany's team coach Sepp Herberger said: "I cannot believe that Puskas really wrote this. If he did, he lied. He was not even in our dressing room after the match."

PETER PAN SPECTACULAR

Mid-Air 'Skating' Highlights Ice Show

By PETE LOUDON
Times Staff Reporter

SEATTLE—The youngsters and the rest of us who never outgrew never-never land, flew with Peter Pan clear out of Seattle's civic ice arena Wednesday night.

The lighting, music, skating and pantomime skill of the cast of Ice Capades of 1957 gave the old story a new element. But it was more than an ice show.

In fact the most spectacular effort was achieved in mid-air. Due to some intricate engineering and sturdy suspension wires Peter Pan, Wendy, Michael and John cruised the arena like swallows.

SPECIAL TOWERS

When the show reaches Victoria January 29, special towers and rigging to provide the flying illusion will already be set up.

Hazel Franklin, originally of Bournemouth, England, makes a creditable Peter Pan. (So much so that one TV-struck kiddie in the audience piped: "It's the peanut butter boy.") Wendy is done by Sandy Culbertson, who was a 17-year-old hopeful applicant—by many Victorians last year.

About 4,800 Seattleites, judging by intermission faves, picked this show as tops over any producer John Harris has put on the northwest circuit in years.

Victorians should watch for Aja Zanova and Silvia and Michel. The frosting on the cake; Willie Kall for some new ice humor, and Johnny Letten-garver for style.

HEADLINES

Old favorites Esco and Trixie Larue, travelling with the 11-month-old reason they missed the show last year, are again headlines—Esco with his no-skates comedy routine and Trixie with the juggling act Victorians will remember.

"Icecrab!" Ken Mullen, who back flips through a 30-inch hoop—and doubles as backstage boss as technicians make like bellringers on the ropes—that control the flying—and a new daredevil stunt team, the Maxwells, combine to give new thrills.

Outstanding production numbers are "Aurora" (where you see where the new cars get their curves), and "Fantasy in Pink" and "Bolero," where the costumes alone are worth the admission.

Victorians should also note, one of the prettiest girls in the chorus is local skate artist Dorothy Bradshaw.

Rainier Announces Names for Heir

MONTE CARLO, Monaco (Reuters)—Prince Rainier announced today that his heir, due to be born to Princess Grace any time now, will be called Gregoire Georges Pierre Richard if a boy, and Caroline Louise Marguerite if a girl.

The prince told a press conference: "The birth will take place at the palace."

"This decision has just been taken after a conference with the princess' doctors who said it could easily be done."

Earlier plans were for the baby to be born in hospital.

Prince Rainier smiled affably at the 75 reporters and photographers who gathered in the white-panelled conference room of the Council of State building.

"We chose the names together after considering several suggestions and made our decision mutually," the prince said.

Rainier said a boy would be sent to Rossey College, a Swiss preparatory school where Rainier was educated.

The child would have Monegasque nationality, he said. There was no question of dual Monegasque-American nationality.

The Body's Kidnap Tales 'Inconsistent'

LOS ANGELES (AP)—There seem to be "glaring inconsistencies" in Marie McDonald's film and verbal accounts of being kidnapped, a spokesman said after the country grand jury took up the case Wednesday.

The jury saw a 20-minute police film of the blonde beauty acting out her story of her kidnapping by two men from her Encino home the night of January 3.

Then they saw a three-minute film interview with the actress by a local TV newscaster, George Putnam. And they heard a police sergeant read a 47-page statement Marie made to detectives at an Indianapolis hospital.

She was taken there, bruised and hysterical, after a truck driver found her on the desert 24 hours after she disappeared.

The grand jury spokesman, who declined to be identified by name, said:

AYLMER TREAT OF THE WEEK

A Flavor Favorite

When you serve Aylmer Dew Drop Peas, ordinary meals taste special—"party" meals taste superb!

Aylmer peas are rushed from the growing fields to the factory where they are canned immediately, ensuring that all the fresh, delightful flavor of newly gathered peas is retained for your enjoyment. And for your further satisfaction, Aylmer Peas are quality-tested for tenderness.

For delicious eating, just heat and serve—or dress them up in one of the easy ways here.

Other delicious ways to serve Aylmer Dew Drop Peas:

- Add tiny boiled onions to hot, buttered Aylmer Dew Drop Peas
- Heat a few sprigs of fresh mint with Aylmer Dew Drop Peas
- Fold an omelet around heated and buttered Aylmer Dew Drop Peas
- Heat drained Aylmer Dew Drop Peas, grated cheese and sliced pimento in white sauce

11-BLOCK TRAIL OF BLOOD

18 Months in Jail For Break-In Try

John Osborne Dow, 26, of Vancouver, was sentenced to 18 months hard labor in Oakalla prison in County Court here Tuesday for attempting to break and enter a Saanich home last October.

He was accused of attempting entry of a basement suite occupied by Brian Johnson, 3055 Milgrove, about midnight October 23.

According to Crown Counsel Lloyd McKenzie, Mr. Johnson heard a suspicious noise, and saw a face at the window. He threw an iron shoe at the face. The shoe is the type used by weight lifters to strengthen leg muscles.

Then he called Saanich police.

FOLLOWED BLOOD

Police traced blood 11 blocks, and Dow was located in St. Joseph's Hospital. Blood was also found in his motel apartment on Gorge Road.

Dr. T. F. Rutherford, interne at St. Joseph's, testified he treated Dow late the night of the 23rd for a scalp laceration that required seven or eight stitches.

"It was a recent wound," he told Judge J. B. Clearihue.

Dow's common-law wife, Shirley, with whom he was living in the motel, told the court he had fallen in the bathroom and cut his head.

Appearing for the defence was J. K. Macey, Vancouver.

LOCAL NEWS BRIEFS

J. A. Bert Myers was re-elected for his third consecutive year as president of St. Luke's 60-Up Club at an annual meeting Tuesday.

Members elected to the executive were Peter Stanton, vice-president; Harry Putland, secretary; William Mann, treasurer; Mrs. May Stanners, Mrs. P. Stanton and Mrs. F. H. Anderson.

Prospective members should submit their applications as soon as possible. Maximum membership has been set at 160. Meetings of the 60-Up Club are held Tuesdays at 2 p.m. in St. Luke's parish hall.

A charge of vagrancy laid against a 19-year-old youth after he was seen at 4.40 a.m. on a downtown used car lot was dismissed in city police court today.

The father of Frederick Scott testified that his son was living at home with his parents at 3851 Cedar Hill Road.

Magistrate H. C. Hall said the circumstances "certainly warranted" police taking the youth into custody, but dismissed the vagrancy charge.

CCF Names Candidate Tonight

Victoria Federal CCF Association will name its candidate for the next federal election at a meeting in the Woodworth Hall, 721 Courtney, tonight at 8.

Bruce Loudon, Victoria shipyard worker, and Victor Williams, formerly of Edmonton, Alta., will be nominated.

Guest speaker will be provincial CCF leader Robert Strachan and George Kelly, party co-ordinator for the Victoria federal riding, will be in the chair.

$25,000 Plan to End Bowker Creek Floods

Victoria council public works committee took emergency measures Wednesday to ensure relief for flood-threatened Bowker Creek residents.

City council will be asked to provide $25,000 in advance of spring budget sessions so work can begin on the creek improvements "within the next six weeks."

Repairs to the creek course and culverts were included in the 1957 estimates, but these do not come before council until May. Groups of residents who

POWER BOAT REGULATIONS READY SOON?

OTTAWA — Transport Minister Marler said in the Commons Wednesday regulations for operation of powerboats may be revised by next summer.

Meanwhile, he said the penalty for dangerous operation of a motor-propelled craft in Canadian waters had been increased to a maximum $500 fine from $200. Regulations were extended to cover "any vessel or any water skis, surf boards, water sleds or other towed objects."

$369,450 Award Appealed Here

Appeal against a Supreme Court decision awarding $369,450 to Tacoma engineer for breach of contract by Helicopter Exploration Co. Ltd., Vancouver, is underway here.

The appeal is against the decision of Mr. Justice Lord last year which granted the sum to Wendell Dawson, who in 1951 contracted with the Vancouver company to show it mineral outcroppings at the head of Leduc River, B.C. He had originally charged the company had proceeded without paying him agreed-on percentages.

Extensive copper and lead ores were found in the area. Counsel for the company, Douglas McK. Brown, Vancouver, based the appeal on the fact the Mr. Dawson "made more money out of the breach of contract than he would have out of the performance."

MONTE ROBERTS

So Judy Boots Streak thinks all I am suffering from is a sniffle, a sneeze, and a snarl.
The sniffle and the sneeze I will admit to.
But not the snarl.
I am the most good natured man I know. Just because I happened to tell Judy Boots Streak a few home truths about the way she and her friends carry on is no reason to accuse me of being snarly.
Just to prove it, I am having JB confined to barracks for only eight hours as punishment for making dogatory remarks. Which is very light punishment indeed, you must agree.

But to get back to pleasanter topics, thanks for all the cards and letters and phone calls. Especially the one which said "Monday's and Tuesday's columns were the funniest you ever wrote."

Perhaps you were wondering why I am devoting all this space to references to a slight ailment affecting the respiratory organs.

It is not because I wish to call attention to the fact I am slowly recovering from the most malevolent cold ever to attack a being, human or otherwise.

It is because I am a member of the Loyal and Benevolent Order of Columnists, and must, as such, abide by the rules and regulations of the order.

And one of the strictest rules is paragraph two, section A, consolidated interpretation of how to be happy though columnizing:

"No columnist, in the event of being stricken with a cold, sprained typewriter finger, wrenched elbow or other ailment, shall fail to take advantage of such ailment to use a report on same as an excuse to fill his allotted space on his return to what is laughingly called work."

Since Sam Pepys successfully started filling pages of his journal with accounts of his various ailments, it is estimated 2,407 tons of newsprint have been used up describing columnar disabilities.

But, frankly, I think I've already used up my share. At-choo! I have spoken.

Miss Saddlemyer, professor of English at Victoria College, has been awarded a $2,000 IODE scholarship for post-graduate study overseas.

The award was made by the Provincial IODE Chapter in Saskatchewan. Miss Saddlemyer is the first Saskatchewan student to be awarded one of the order's four post-graduate overseas scholarships from War Memorial II.

Later this year, Miss Saddlemyer will enrol at the University of London where she will work towards a doctor of philosophy degree majoring in Irish drama.

Since her appointment to the Victoria College staff in September, she has been teaching first-year English.

Born in Prince Albert, Sask., in 1932, Miss Saddlemyer received her high school training in Humboldt, Sask., where her parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Saddlemyer, still reside.

SHE received an honors bursary in English in May, 1954, and high honors in English in May, 1955.

Miss Saddlemyer entered Queen's University in 1953 and was awarded the R. Samuel McLaughlin Resident Fellowship of $900 in 1955 and a further summer supplement of $600.

For presentation of thesis material in March, 1955, she received the Andrina McCulloch prize. In September, 1956, Miss Saddlemyer received her master of arts degree in English. She will be laureated in May, 1957.

Depreciation Fund Plan Gets Approval

One-Way Streets Trial Planned

City council public works committee approved Wednesday night a proposed depreciation replacement fund for vital services at low annual cost to the city.

Outlined by city engineer James Garnett, the system would ensure continual replacement and maintenance of roads, sewers, storm drains and waterworks without going to the expense of a high debenture issue every few years.

Such a fund, already in effect for waterworks in the city, would stabilize the public works budget from year to year insofar as the vital services are concerned.

"Victoria is in an advantageous position now because all these vital services are in need of maintenance but not complete renewal," said Mr. Garnett.

Committee members heard a broad outline of public works plans for 1957, but the engineer made particular reference to "desirability of depreciation replacement as a sound means of ensuring development standard and maintenance in perpetuity of vital services without carrying any further capital expenditures."

At present $100,000 per annum is allocated for waterworks replacement and depreciation, ensuring a high quality of waterworks forever, said the engineer.

Traffic recommendations received some opposition, but the mayor proposal of trying out a revised plan for the Fountain Circle and making parts of Government and Douglas one-way, will be recommended for six-months trial at the next meeting of council.

Mayor Percy Scurren stated he would vote against the plan, laid out by traffic consultant Jackson Faustman after a detailed survey of local traffic problems last year.

It would mean making sandbag islands and temporary traffic signals at the Fountain, placing one-way restriction on Government southbound from Hillside to Herald and on Douglas northbound from Herald to Hillside.

There was argument over whether Herald or Princess should be the cross-over street, or the first place on the one-way portions where left turns would be permitted.

MAYOR AGAINST

The mayor said he did not care where it was put, he would vote against the plan.

"I'm not sold yet on the necessity of one-way streets in that area."

"Authorities say, on the basis of experience in the U.S., one-way streets are desirable only when conditions become intolerable."

"My thought is that conditions are not yet intolerable at the Fountain Circle," said the mayor.

"There are some big taxpayers on those streets. I think a system of two-way streets could be devised which would be practical from a traffic point of view, if not perhaps, from an engineering standpoint."

RETIRED at the end of January after 30 years' service with the Canadian Pacific is Capt. George A. Thomson, who joined CPSS Princess Victoria in 1927 as third officer. Captain Thomson brought four of the CPR's newest vessels to this coast from the builder's yards in Scotland — the Princesses Patricia and Marguerite, the Princess of Nanaimo and the Princess of Vancouver. During the Second World War, from 1939 to 1942, he served with the RCN, and until 1945 was on loan to the Canadian Australian Line. He has served as master of most of the vessels in the B.C. Coast Service of the CPR.

He appeared in city police court today, pleaded not guilty, and was remanded to Jan. 28 for trial. Bail was set at $250.

The collision occurred a few minutes after midnight about 65 feet east of Chambers. Police said both cars were a total loss.

TWO INJURED

In another two-car collision at Belleville and Douglas at 10.15 a.m. today, two men were injured and taken to Naden Hospital.

Hospital officials said Cpl. Ormond Lester Anquet, QOR, and Gordon Douglas Kirton, Work Point Barracks, were not seriously hurt. X-rays were being taken at noon to determine the extent of their injuries.

Police said Kirton was a passenger in a car driven by Anquet. Driver of the second car was not identified.

Two cars were heavily damaged in a crash-up at Courtney and Douglas at 11 p.m. Wednesday night, but the occupants were not badly hurt.

The two drivers, Philip G. Holmes, 3191 Admirals, and Robert D. Stapleton, 496 Vancouver, went to St. Joseph's Hospital for a check-up and released.

Police said a woman passenger was cut on the knee but refused hospital treatment.

Norris Worried Over Delay In Beach Project

Reeve Fred Norris of Oak Bay today expressed concern over provincial cabinet delay in implementing the already approved $90,000 beautification project for the Willows Beach and Uplands Park area.

The project, while approved by the Capital Improvement District Commission, still needs cabinet endorsement before a start can be made.

The reeve said the plans for the project had been in cabinet hands several months.

"I do not understand the delay," he said.

The project would include a promenade along Esplanade in front of Willows Beach and Uplands Park. Parking spaces and "other improvements" would be provided, the reeve said.

TODAY'S BEEFS

Jan. 8 at 5 p.m. I was making a left turn from Richmond on to Lansdowne, at which intersection there is a four-way stop. The first car making the stop has the right of way, which in this case was a car driving north on Richmond. My car coming from north was second on intersection but I was surprised to find another car going north following the first car through without even making the proper stop. This was not only discourteous but also could have resulted in an accident.

R.G.B.

Jan. 10, at 12 noon, I was proceeding north on Douglas approaching the Roundabout at about Hillside, driving alongside and on the left side of a B.C. Electric bus, and about even with it. The bus suddenly slackened speed and, as the bus prevented me from seeing to my right, I pulled to a sudden stop. It was well I did, because there was another bus coming off Hillside, round in front of the bus on my right. I was so close to the second bus when he passed in front of me, if he had another coat of paint I would have hit him.

S.B.

At 5.50 p.m., Jan. 10, while driving west on Fort Street and when at Pentrevel Place a pedestrian cross-walk, with an auto parked at the north curb a few feet east of the cross-walk. An elderly man dressed in dark clothes stepped from the sidewalk to proceed south on the cross-walk. Traffic was heavy and proceeding east and west at the time. The location is rather dark for a cross-walk. Regardless of traffic the man walked right into the on-coming traffic. Lucky for the man, the drivers had their eyes on the road, also good brakes, or there would have been another dead duck for the morgue.

Minister Arrives From Amsterdam For City Church

Rev. R. W. Popma arrived with his family from Amsterdam Wednesday to become the first minister of the new Christian Reformed Church here.

Forty-four years old, he was born in Holland and served with the Dutch Reformed Church in Surabaya, Indonesia, for the past 11 years.

Mr. and Mrs. Popma speak English well, but with heavy Dutch overtones. They learned the language at high school.

"We lived in little country. We have to learn languages," Mrs. Popma explained.

Their eldest daughter Alice, 15, picked up some English in Surabaya, but the other children—Margaret, 13, Harold, 12, Jacqueline, eight, Violet, six, and Caroline, three—speak Dutch only.

Services in the Christian Reformed Church, formerly Oaklands Gospel Hall, will be conducted in the Dutch language until Mr. Popma has a surer grasp of English.

He will preach his first services Sunday.

'Spent Awful Week' Suspect Told Police

Negligence Charged in City Crash

Drivers Escape; Cars Demolished

Drivers of two cars which were demolished in a head-on crash on Bay Street early today both escaped serious injury.

One of the drivers, Harvey V. Erickson, Denman Street, was taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital but was released after treatment for bruises.

The other driver, Victor Yablonski, 1222 Yates, was arrested at the scene for criminally negligent driving.

He appeared in city police court today, pleaded not guilty, and was remanded to Jan. 28 for trial. Bail was set at $250.

The collision occurred a few minutes after midnight about 65 feet east of Chambers. Police said both cars were a total loss.

Kiddies Love Desserts Made In Menagerie Jelly Molds

By PENNY SAVER

An ordinary Thursday evening dinner can be something really special for the youngsters in your house if you use a little imagination in the dessert-making. Gelatin and moulded desserts offer unlimited possibilities for party-like dishes. Individual jelly moulds shaped like tiny animals will be claimed by the children as "theirs." Rabbits or frogs, in metal moulds, are available for just six cents apiece. A menagerie dessert would be fun for a change. You can add the extra decorative touches yourself and enjoy the experiment.

In the midst of the many sales still going on in town, I saw blue serge school uniforms selling for just $3.32. For those fast-growing youngsters who seem to just shoot out of their clothes, this is a good buy. Also at a special price are cotton uniform blouses in white. These are $1.99. Children attending private schools here in Victoria can benefit from these reduced priced items. A large size can always be put away for next year.

Pythian Sisters Install Officers

Island Temple No. 8, Pythian Sisters, installed the officers for 1957 with Mrs. N. Ryan conducting the ceremonies as installing officer. Assisting was Mrs. M. Stanley as grand senior and Mrs. E. Flint as grand manager. Officers installed were past chief, Mrs. Ann Tasker, pro tem; M.E.C., Mrs. A. Banks; excellent senior, Mrs. A. Carlson; excellent junior, Mrs. N. Stokes; manager, Mrs. C. Mullen; secretary, Miss Vera Mesher; treasurer, Mrs. M. Urwin; protector, Mrs. H. Johnson, and guard, Mrs. A. M. Nordby. Mrs. V. Bayly was pianist for the evening.

Courses of red carnations added color to the white formal of all officers taking part in the ceremonies. Mrs. A. Banks, serving her second term as most excellent chief, was presented with her past chief's certificate and jewelry by past grand chief Vera Mesher. Mrs. N. Ryan was elected grand representative, with Mrs. M. Urwin as alternate. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting. Visitors were present from Hamilton, Ontario; Trail, Courtenay and Capital City Temple No. 35.

Into another department, entirely, here are new-as-new shortie gloves for cocktail and evening wear. They're of soft, black velvet, and have dainty cuff buttons.

The palms of the gloves are of a smooth fabric, that will withstand much wear. With black velvet so popular this year (you'll see it in dresses, suits, coats and accessories) these gloves will serve you well. One of the most appealing features, aside from the top fashion notes, that we see in these gloves is the wonderful price. They're $3.95. A luxury glove at a price that suits your budget!

Trays, tubs, buckets and waste baskets — next on the shopping list. When you see the novel ones I found, you'll be just as interested in them as I am. You have a choice of a black background or an orange background. On these startling colors are prints of well-known liqueur and liquor labels.

The bright splashes of color in these miniature labels gives the buckets and trays a gay look. Various sizes in trays cost $3.75, $4 and $5.50. Waste baskets are $5.50 and ice or waste buckets, $6.75. Larger tubs, with the same label patterns are $10.95. They're made in Germany.

Call me at 2-3131 and I'll tell you where to buy the items mentioned here in the column.

DRESSED FOR DANCING

A bell-shaped skirt topped by a bodice embroidered in pearl and crystal are features of this blue satin bouffant ball gown worn by Mrs. Richard Nixon, wife of the United States vice-president. She selected the gown for wear at the inaugural ball next Monday evening. A matching blue satin handbag, on table, decorated in crystal and pearl completes the ensemble. —(AP wirephoto)

Gives Special Help to Those on Marathon

I want to give one day a week during the time my Eight-Week Self-Improvement Marathon is running to help you reach the goal you are shooting for.

Already, calls are coming in asking when the Marathon Booklet will reach readers. I receive a tremendous number of requests for it and we are getting them out to you just as rapidly as we possibly can, with an extra staff of secretaries.

When your booklet reaches you, read it over carefully. Follow the directions faithfully. The directions are important to your success. Count your eight weeks from the time you receive instructions. All of the most usual defects in beauty are covered in the booklet but if you have some special problem which is not, I will be glad to give you even more personal help.

Send your letters in immediately and I will discuss any troubles you mention in a future column about them. Have a heart though! Please make your letter short since I am deluged with mail at the present time.

It is a good idea to give your skin special lubrication when you are reducing. A body lotion is also a fine idea. When on a slimming diet your fat intake is lower than usual. Also the pad of fat underneath the skin is decreasing. In winter the skin is drier anyway.

I would like to call your attention to the "Eight Weeks to Popularity" section at the back of the Marathon booklet. I think you will enjoy grading yourself. You may not show up very well at first, when you are eating less than usual and have a few sore muscles. However, I feel sure that you will find that your personality will improve as your energy increases and you become more satisfied with the way you look.

Remember! It is probably now or never! Procrastination is a strong habit but now you have company all over the country, thousands of women who are indulging in self-improvement with the Marathon routine.

I also am getting letters from readers who want to know if it is too late to join Marathon. If some of you failed to join last week and would like to do so now send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for the Marathon booklet. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

TODAY'S RECIPE

BREAD CUSTARD

Here's a new calorie conscious dessert that looks as attractive as those holiday treats just past. Three cups liquefied nonfat dry milk, or skim milk; 3 slices bread; 3 eggs; 1 tablespoon SUCARYL solution or 24 tablets, crushed; 1 teaspoon vanilla; cinnamon and nutmeg.

Scald the milk in a one-quart saucepan. Meanwhile, cube the bread and place it in a one-quart casserole. Combine the eggs, SUCARYL and vanilla; then blend into the scalded milk. Pour this over the bread cubes.

If you wish, sprinkle top with cinnamon and nutmeg. Set in a pan of warm water and bake in a moderate oven (325 degrees) for one hour. Makes eight servings.

For the statistically minded, if the recipe is made with SUCARYL, each serving contains 85 calories. If made with sugar, 109 calories.

LOUISE DAVIS

On Etiquette

ABOUT A WEDDING PRESENT

I live in the country, about 30 miles from a large city, where we have many friends. The daughter of a good friend is to be married and we received an invitation to the wedding and reception. Because I am not well and because gift shopping is difficult for me, the mother of the bride volunteered to shop for me. I accepted her offer, realizing that she would know what the daughter wanted and needed.

Louise

Much to my consternation, we received a bill from one of the city's exclusive stores for a pair of silver candleabra costing $75. I would like to read your comments.

LOUISE DAVIS ANSWERS:

This is indeed shocking, and I am sure that you won't let a thing like this happen again. To begin with, the situation is unconventional, for you should have engineered the gift-getting regardless of the seemingly well meant offer. You could have long-distanced a store where you have an account, and have done your shopping that way. Many stores and shops have a way of knowing what a bride would like and they can be very helpful. But when you agreed to let the mother do your shopping, you should have then stipulated without hesitation or embarrassment the amount you wanted to pay, for, after all, the cost of the item would have been no secret to either of you. I'm horrified at the mother being so presumptuous, first in offering to make the purchase, then in assuming that you would think nothing of paying $75, or even $50, or even $25.

Cheery Atmosphere At Open House

At the second annual open house and linen shower held in Gorge Road Hospital, Wednesday afternoon, guests enjoyed tea in a gaily-decorated ground floor room, where daffodils and foliage formed a springtime background. Vines and greenery were entwined around floor-to-ceiling pillars and from the ceiling hung white and pink "bird cage" baskets filled with brightly-tinted carnations. A large silver tray filled with moss held an arrangement of golden yellow daffodils and fern, that formed an attractive centerpiece for intersecting refreshment tables. Candles in silver candelabra reflected the yellow, completing a lovely arrangement. Decorations were conveyed by Mrs. E. Hansen.

RECEIVING GUESTS

The affair, hosted by the president, directors and auxiliary of the Gorge Road Hospital, drew a large crowd. Receiving guests were Mrs. C. C. Warren, acting president of the board of directors, Miss Verna Beck and Mrs. C. Aitken.

During the afternoon, guests were escorted by auxiliary members in smocks and badges on tours of hospital departments where they viewed physio-therapy and occupational therapy work, improvements in the room, a new inter-communication system between patient and nursing stations and large, modern kitchen. Conducting tours were Mrs. W. McGregor, Mrs. P. M. Wolley, Mrs. L. Alton and Mrs. K. Morris. Showing occupational therapy work were Mrs. M. Brethour and Miss A. Harness.

In charge of receipts were Mrs. G. F. Hilliard, Mrs. C. Dodgson and Mrs. A. Banks. Linen donations were received by Mrs. W. Beutelspacher and Mrs. E. Hansen. Tea arrangements were conveyed by Mrs. R. Vickers assisted by Mrs. W. Edwards, Mrs. O. Douglas, Mrs. A. G. Hamilton and Mrs. G. Holt, and in charge of refreshments were Mrs. C. Aitken, Mrs. M. Rain, Mrs. A. Mais, Mrs. C. Campbell, Mrs. P. Windwick, Mrs. E. Munroe, Mrs. W. S. Smith, Mrs. H. Kolb, and Mrs. T. Potter.

Honor guests included honorary president, Mrs. Margaret Christie, Mrs. Percy B. Scourrah and Mrs. W. A. C. Bennett.

English Visitor Likes Life Here; Will Stay

By TERRY FRENCH

In the three years since Miss Ann Sandeman finished school in England, she has travelled many miles and seen many things.

She is at present a guest of her uncle and aunt, Dr. and Mrs. P. M. Destrube, Santa Clara Avenue.

In July when she arrived from England, she planned to spend seven months in this country and then return to her home in Richmond, London.

She has changed her original plans and intends to stay here. "The country reminds me very much of home in many ways," she said, gazing out the window of the Destrube home overlooking Elk Lake.

A year and a half ago she made a tour of Italy, France and Switzerland. This gave her a taste for travel, and when the invitation to visit Canada arrived from the Destrubes, she was "thrilled." Soon she was on her way across the Atlantic aboard the Empress of Britain. "It was a wonderful trip," she smiled, recalling the crossing. "For it was only the ship's third trip, and everything was so new and exciting."

After crossing Canada by train and spending some time here in Victoria, Ann travelled with her uncle and aunt across the Rockies and then to Edmonton to see where her father, a Canadian, was born. They visited the neighborhood and saw the house where Mr. Sandeman had grown up.

Near the Destrube home at Elk Lake is a nursery school where Ann has been working for the past few months. Here she did the type of thing she really wants to do... work with children. With this experience, she starts out on a new venture this Sunday, when she joins the staff of Queen Alexandra Solarium, where she will "live in" and start her training as a nurse's aid.

She is very happy at this prospect, especially with the fact that she will be working directly with the children.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Sandeman, write that they are pleased with Ann's decision to stay in Canada, for in the world situation right now, life in England is "rather mixed up and in some circumstances, unfortunate."

Though she doesn't believe her family will join her and live in Canada, she's quite sure that there will be "visits back and forth."

Young Auxiliary Presents $1,400 To Cerebral Palsy Association

The women's auxiliary to the Cerebral Palsy Clinic, formed two years ago with eight members and grown now to 40 active members, proudly handed a cheque for $1,400 to J. G. Robison, vice-president of the Cerebral Palsy Association, yesterday evening.

Presentation was made by the auxiliary vice-president, Mrs. W. M. Martin, at second annual meeting of the group, held in the annex at the Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Retiring president, Mrs. C. H. Miller, presided and in her report stressed the main reason for which the auxiliary was formed—to supply volunteer help at the cerebral palsy clinic.

"Although our organization is young in years it is quickly becoming experienced in service," Mrs. Miller said.

VOLUNTEER WORK

As chairman of the volunteers that staff the clinic, Mrs. D. B. Ascott reported on work of 33 workers, each one giving an average of three hours a day, one day a week, in the schoolrooms, the playroom, the speech library room or with the "bunny" buses that take the young patients to and from the clinic.

Mrs. Ascott's report showed 75 active volunteers and 22 available to serve as substitutes.

There are now 51 children attending the clinic.

"We are always in need of volunteers," she said, "who are willing not only to give their time but also of themselves, for a cheerful, happy attitude is of the greatest value in this work."

Treasurer's report, given by Mrs. A. J. Meyer, showed receipts for the year as $1,910.05. This included $588.30 in donations and $1,321.75 realized from various projects such as sale of minor hockey programs, rummage sales, raffles and sale of B.C. Products Fair passes. Disbursements were $1,592.17, including $287.33 for clinic expenses and a $1,000 donation to the clinic.

Report of the buying committee chairman, Mrs. T. H. Carson, showed that special textbooks for the classrooms, phonograph records, two aluminum garden chairs for the outdoor playyard, shin pads, sun bonnets and a muscle builder had been purchased.

Mrs. R. T. Copley told of the annual party for the young patients and their parents, held during the holiday season.

NEW OFFICERS

New executive members were introduced by Mrs. Miller as follows: President, Mrs. L. F. Dunn; vice-president, Mrs. Martin; treasurer, Mrs. N. H. Lawrie; recording secretary, Mrs. M. F. Brundage; corresponding, Mrs. Copley; chairman of volunteer workers, Mrs. Ascott.

Introduced by Dr. Murray Anderson, administrator at the Royal Jubilee Hospital, Dr. J. G. McKenzie gave a short, clear talk on Rh problems and their relations to cerebral palsy and the reasons why replacement transfusions are given new born babies threatened with brain damage because of Rh positive cells. He was thanked by Mrs. Brundage.

Recognize Middle East Problems

There can be no solution to the Suez Canal problem without some recognition of the Egyptian government and some form of international contract removing the right of refusing access from any state, according to Neil Swainson, assistant professor of education at Victoria College.

Speaking to the Women's Canadian Club on "The Middle East," Wednesday afternoon, Mr. Swainson said:

"The more I think of it, the more I see the need for a sizeable United Nations force."

Formation of an international zone between Egypt and Israel is also necessary. In this zone, which would be bought from Egypt, a free port could be built along the Gaza Strip, and new pipelines laid.

The canal situation is now inextricably associated with help.

the Arab-Israeli situation, Mr. Swainson said.

The most urgent and baffling outcome of the Arab-Israeli war, however, is the refugee problem. Three years ago there were 872,000 refugees. The west assumed that time would heal, but with births exceeding deaths, the situation has worsened.

It is important to realize there is no peace between the Arabs and Jews, but a strained armistice.

"I feel that re-settlement is the only long-range answer, and the Arabs and Jews must have a guarantee of boundaries," said Mr. Swainson. "Re-settlement will have to be imposed," he stressed. This will call for major movement, especially to Iraq.

"There is no doubt that we will have to give this area inextricably associated with help."

One of the tragedies of the situation is that the Arabs are suspicious of the west, and regard any help with skepticism.

"The Middle East is no more immune than we are from the materialism and paganism of modern life and the people blame the new delinquencies of their sons on the influences of the west," Mr. Swainson said.

"We have every right to ask for friendship with gifts. But to start, I feel we may have to practice the last of the Beattitudes, 'do good unto them that hate you.'"

Drug Control Plan Rejected
In Vancouver

(From CP Dispatches)

VANCOUVER—Narcotics control is not a matter for city council action, the city's administration board said Wednesday.

It turned down a request for the city to participate in an educational campaign on drug addiction.

The board said support should be sought from Vancouver School Board and the provincial government.

G. E. Watson, regional director of the narcotics control service, said: "The $10,000 spent on distribution of free literature on narcotics addiction would offset the $10,000 annual cost of drug addiction in Vancouver."

Doctor Ordered Dangerous Drug Witness Says

EASTBOURNE, Eng. (AP)— A woman druggist testified today that Dr. John Bodkin Adams prescribed dangerous drugs for a wealthy 71-year-old patient who died of an overdose of morphine.

The druggist, Miss Mary Temple, produced a bundle of 20 prescriptions made out by Adams for Alfred J. Hullett between March, 1955, and March, 1956.

Adams, 57-year-old society doctor with a rich practice in this fashionable resort, has been accused by the prosecution of killing from his patients to profit from their wills.

He is charged only with murder in the death of 81-year-old Mrs. Edith Morrell, a well-to-do widow, in November, 1950, but the prosecution says he also drugged Hullett and Hullett's wife, Gertrude, to death.

Mrs. Hullett, 50, died July 23 last year—four months after the death of her husband.

Miss Temple told the court
Adams gave her two prescriptions for dangerous drugs—morphine and barbiturates—to be sent to the Hulletts home.

A stir went around the court
when Crown Counsel Melford Stevenson told the justices that a cheque for £1,000 banked by Adams on July 18 last year had "disappeared" at the August inquest on Mrs. Hullett's death.

Scotland Yard says that Adams received £1,000 from Mrs. Hullett on July 17—six days before her death.

LOS ANGELES (AP)— Meter readers of the city department of water and power are carrying packages of a dog delicacy that they hope pets will prefer to biting the readers.

Employees starting their rounds are equipped with sweetmeats to which they'll treat dogs whenever the gesture appears expedient.

Pets average 60 bites yearly on meter readers who go into back yards and screened porches to check the amounts of water and electricity consumed, the city says.

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH. (AP)—
It didn't take an electronics expert to figure out why Victor Barnes' hi-fi set was giving forth weird noises.

Policeman Gerald Baker answered Barnes' trouble call. He heard the noises, wrapped the set in a blanket as a precaution, and headed for the garage.

When Baker opened the back of the set, an imprisoned squirrel raced out to freedom.

Work of Big Names
In Gallery Show

By GWLADYS DOWNES

There is a dazzling array of names in the exhibition of original British drawings and watercolors of the 20th century, sent out by the British Council, which will be here until Feb. 3.

This is, in fact, one of the major exhibitions of the year at the Art Gallery, and should not be missed.

Beginning with Sickert and Steer, the show contains examples (more than one sometimes) of the work of Graham
Sutherland, Stanley Spencer, Ben Nicholson, Frances Hodg-
kins, Christopher Wood, Gwen John, Barbara Hepworth, Robert Colquhoun and others.

There are surprisingly few complete abstractions in the cubist tradition, although the lessons of cubism have not been forgotten.

JOY FOR SPECTATOR

The outstanding quality of the work in this exhibition is a joy for the spectator. The artists have that complete, passionate apprehension of their subjects which is the prequisite of any deeply-felt work of art.

Everything has been grasped; essential details have been chosen to convey the form; and out of this choice, which depends in the last analysis on the artist's personality, has come the final painting. Barbara Hepworth's compassionate recreation of hands in a hospital

U.K. DRAWINGS, WATERCOLORS

Work of Big Names

is perhaps the best example of this.

There is not only one Henry Moore, but five, including a most interesting early work of a seated woman, realistic in treatment, but with nevertheless the monumental quality of his later abstractions. Like Van Gogh's early drawings, and some of Rembrandt, this study is classic and impersonal. All the artist's talent goes into the task of expressing the thing seen in terms of its own essential and eternal qualities.

The English mastery of the watercolor is, of course, proverbial. Steer handles the soft atmospheres of the landscape, Gwen John the profile of a little girl, and Stanley Spencer a group of modern soldiers with the same fluid ease.

As a contrast to this style, one can enjoy the sharper vision of Graham Sutherland or a slightly angular nude of Wyndham Lewis.

The typography exhibit is being held over for another week so that more children from the schools may see it. The British exhibit is therefore divided into two sections, and gallery visitors are reminded not to miss the room upstairs if they go this week.

AILING

HOLLYWOOD (AP)— Movie director Alfred Hitchcock is in Cedars of Lebanon Hospital for X-ray tests and observation. A hospital spokesman listed his condition as good. Hitchcock was admitted Sunday.

Lake Children May Build Own Sailboats

A fleet of "Sabot" class sailboats may emerge on Prospect Lake if a project of the Prospect Lake and District Community Association is successful.

Under discussion is a plan to teach 12 to 15-year-olds how to build and sail the eight-foot craft in a two-pronged recreational program for the winter and summer.

The association is undecided how the building would be financed, but it is suggested costs might be shared by parents, the association and interested children.

Of primary concern is a suitable place where construction might be carried out.

Also under consideration is a plan to build tennis courts for children of the area.

Annual meeting re-elected A. J.
Shakespeare, president, and returned most other executive members to office. New faces on the 1957 executive include Mrs. A.
Lamprecht and David Wright.

Anthology of Arts
Set for Tonight
At Art Gallery

An "anthology of the arts" in the Art Gallery, Moss Street, tonight at 8.30 will include talks in the fields of poetry, painting and architecture.

Poet and broadcaster Floris McLaren will speak on poetry of the "little" magazines published in Canada; architect and designer Peter Cotton will speak concerning "things I have liked and not liked" in the appearance of Victoria, while Tony Emery, who initiated the series two years ago, will give an illustrated talk on this century's controversial painter Pablo Picasso.

Saturday and Sunday, starting about 9.30 a.m., the gallery is sponsoring its second poetry workshop. Professor Roy Daniels, head of UBC's English department, conducts the program.

Woman Refugee Freezes to Death

VIENNA (AP)—Only 270
Hungarian refugees have crossed into Austria in the last 24 hours, apparently because of severe cold and heavy snow.

Austrian police reported a woman refugee froze to death and her 21-month-old daughter suffered severe frostbite.

CONFIDENTIALLY YOURS
—By Byrne Hope Sanders

MONTREAL, Jan. 17th—Dogs will roam ... but young will come home ... especially if he is wearing a Dr. Ballard's solid brass dog tag stamped with his name and address. Here is how to get one for your dog: Simply mail any 3 Dr. Ballard's labels plus 25c (to cover handling and mailing) along with your dog's name and address to Dr.
Ballard's Animal Foods Ltd., Box 1020, Station A, Toronto, Ontario. I know you'll be delighted with the dog tag—and your dog will be delighted with the meaty goodness of Dr. Ballard's food is BEST for your pet. So better get some DR. BALLARD'S CHAMPION DOG FOOD, Chicken, Liver or Regular flavors, next time you shop!

I Enjoy Writing ... about the enjoyment of the New INSTANT CHASE & SANBORN COFFEE, because it's so very, very good. It is at the heart of so many lovely moments in the day: a bright breakfast; lingering moments of quiet after some strenuous work; confidences shared; peace and pleasure at home. For this coffee delight we can thank the experts at Chase & Sanborn who have been making fine coffee for nearly 100 years. Look through the window in a jar of the New Instant Chase & Sanborn, and see for yourself, the rich coffee color that means real coffee flavor. Take home a jar tonight and discover this real coffee satisfaction for yourself.

I Love A Party ... giving one, or going to one, don't you? And it's fun to serve—or to be served—delectable canapés and hors d'oeuvres made with the New McCOR-MICK'S CLUB CRACKERS. These crackers are deliciously different—a delicately salted flavor, that blends wonderfully with any spread. And inside every package—as I hope you've discovered yourself—is a very helpful booklet, "Hostess Hints," giving you the most modern ideas for the kind of spreads that make your guests say, "Your food is always so wonderful!" Do order McCormick's Club Crackers this very day!

Nearly Every Evening ... we enjoy one of the delectable
LIPTON
SOUPS. Hardly ever miss serving it because we all enjoy Lipton Soup so much
—it's a wonderful welcome home on a cold winter day! The variety is so wide — Lipton Chicken Noodle; Lipton Onion; Lipton
Beef Noodle—and Lipton Tomato Vegetable. The flavors are full-bodied, the seasoning as delicate as if you'd spent a lot of time on it.
No wonder these fine soups are appearing on so many Canadian tables — they make an ideal luncheon dish—or as a start to a happy evening meal. And there's a new one coming soon—Lipton
Green Pea Soup. More, later!

How About those New Year resolutions? One of mine that I am keeping is to remember how easy it can be to keep one's hands soft and pretty with CAMPANA'S
ITALIAN BALM.
Only takes a breath of time—as you can now buy the household size with the handy new dispenser which releases just the right amount—both for only 66c —just a thumb-squeeze—and you have enough to rub quickly into your pretty hands, after every exposure to weather, wind and work! It's really a smart idea to keep a bottle upstairs, downstairs—and in the laundry, too.
You'll find Italian Balm at all drug counters.

"Know What?" said my son, the other day: "All the fellows are eating hot cereals these cold days—and so will I!" Next morning he was relishing RED RIVER CEREAL — just as others in many thousands of homes. This delicious blending of fine grains, known for generations as Red River, has long been the favorite of those who must do heavy work and need energy-giving breakfasts. It's the favorite, too, of sedentary workers who find that Red River guards regularity. Red River cooks quickly, and costs only two cents a serving. We grew up on it as children—and it's a pleasure to serve it to a new generation ... and to recommend it!

Maybe It's Cupboard Love ... but we mothers certainly get extra approval when the cookery is fun and it's a joy to bake with BLUE BONNET MARGARINE —for everything turns out well—cookies, cakes, pastry, muffins. That's because Blue Bonnet is made from pure vegetable oils and pasteurized skim milk—with essential vitamins and vitamins added. Remember that "Everything's better with Blue Bonnet on it!" ... whether it's a baked potato—fresh vegetables—hot biscuits—add a pat of the sunny-sweet, nutritious Blue Bonnet and make it extra good. Blue Bonnet is the same high quality, but is a better bargain than ever at the new low price!

One Minute! That's all it now takes to make a delicious lemon pie filling with exciting new ROYAL INSTANT LEMON PIE FILLING. The work is all done for you. You simply mix the Royal with sugar and boiling water—then pour into your pie shell. Royal Instant Lemon Pie Filling makes real lemon pie filling with rich, glossy texture and real lemon color, and the sparkling flavor of real lemons—there's no artificial flavor in this pie filling! And for extra tart flavor, you can add a few drops fresh lemon juice. Be sure you try new Royal Instant Lemon Pie Filling—the only instant lemon pie filling in Canada!

"You've Lost Pounds—And Pounds!" Isn't that a wonderful exclamation to hear? You'll know the pleasure of it with AYDS—and the Ayds Plan ... for here is a sure and easy method of losing weight. Taken before meals, as directed, the caramel-like Ayds curb your appetite for fattening foods. You just naturally eat less—and so you lose weight! Vitamins and minerals have been added, too. Freseen the records of Clinical Tests, made under medical supervision, which proved that men and women lose weight more efficiently with Ayds and the Ayds Plan than with any other reducing methods. You can, too! Ask your druggist.

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

By FREEMAN KING

LT. COL. R. Girard, district commissioner, will hold a meeting of the district staff, assistant commissioners, district cubmasters and district scoutmasters at headquarters, 1034 Johnson Street, tonight. The meeting will be in the form of a training session outlining the duty of each section.

Windsor Park "B" Pack: Larry Salmon joined the Pack as a new chum at the regular meeting Tuesday evening. Mrs. Marge Coulter was introduced as the new assistant leader for the Pack.

Glanford Avenue Pack: The meetings will be held on Monday at 6:30 p.m. in the Church Hall, day evenings in future, starting next Monday at 6:30 p.m. Previously the Pack has met on Fridays. At the last session a review of first star tests was held.

St. John's Group: A father and son banquet is planned for Friday at 6:30 p.m. in the Church Hall, Balmoral Road.

SPCA Guest List

(A Times service for those seeking lost pets and those wishing to acquire pets. Animals up for adoption at the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals Shelter, 111 Wilson, can be secured for a nominal donation to the SPCA. Telephone 3-6214, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., for information.)

NEW ARRIVALS: Golden Cocker you-eight puppies from which to choose, six weeks old, lots of Irish Setter in them.

READY FOR ADOPTION: Scamp is a one-year-old male golden spaniel cross. Loves children. Very quiet, shy and retiring is Nipper, a lovely little Border Collie type. Doesn't seem to like men, and needs lots of affection. Here's an assorted bundle for you—eight puppies from which to choose, six weeks old, lots of Irish Setter in them.

A quiet, dignified type, three years old, is Skip, a black collie cross. Very dependable with kids.

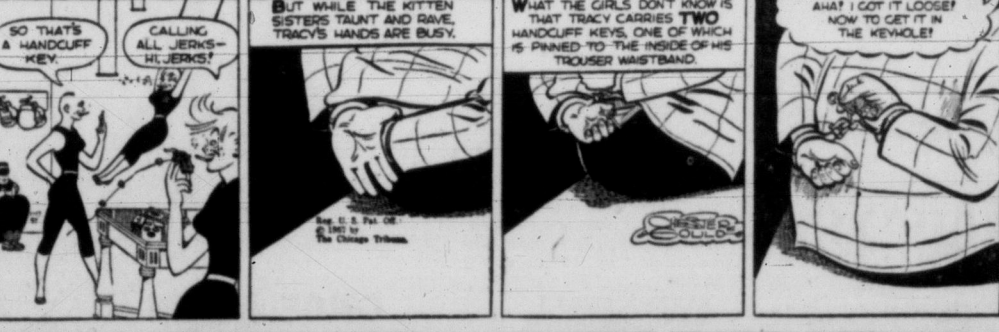

MUSICAL INSTRUMENT

The clarinet is said to have been invented in 1690 by Johann Denner of Nurnberg from a primitive reed instrument.

DUCKS GLACE' A LA BEACON HILL

Feathered philosophers at Goodacre Lake, Beacon Hill Park, took to unusual conditions today like skates take to ice—with one exception. When landing after short flights, they found lack of brakes handicap, were inclined to bump into one another in long, swooping collisions. Ducks—and people—can expect more of same tonight, with an official low of 30 at Gonzales, 22 at Patricia Bay. Cold is expected to moderate slowly, with increasing cloudiness during weekend.—(Times photo by Halkett)

PILOT DODGED SUEZ MISSION, RAF CHARGES

NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters)—An RAF bomber pilot was accused today of deliberately crippling his plane on the ground to avoid carrying out orders during bombing of the Suez Canal zone two months ago.

FO Dennis Raymond Kenyon, 24, will be tried by a general court martial Jan. 28 on a charge of causing the undercarriage of his Canberra bomber to be partially retracted before takeoff.

The British command here said: "When under orders to carry out a warlike operation in the air" Kenyon did not "use his utmost exertions to carry such orders into effect."

He was under orders to take off from Nicosia and fly to Egypt.

Twelve Saved; Gales Ground Nfld. Car Ferry

PORT AUX BASQUES, Nfld. (CP)—All 12 passengers were rescued from the grounded cargo-passenger ship Cabot Strait today after dory-riding fishermen, braving raging winds, followed a line from shore to the helpless ship.

CNR officials in St. John's said all passengers were "definitely off the ship."

High winds continued to pound the 2,000-ton CNR-operated vessel late today as she lay high on a sandbar, about five miles west of this Newfoundland terminal port where the ship was heading in an early-morning blizzard.

The railway official said crew members, not directly engaged in the ship's operation, would likely be rescued by the dorymen later today.

Other crew members were expected to remain aboard.

There were confusing reports about how the ship was faring on the isolated sandbar.

E. H. Healy, district marine agent, said there didn't appear to be any immediate danger. But in Montreal the CNR said the ship was in "critical danger."

80-MPH BLIZZARD
Mr. Healy said winds were gusting to 80 miles an hour and carrying heavy snow when the ship, which runs between here and North Sydney, N.S., on a daily schedule, plowed into the sandbar.

The government-owned ship is operated by the CNR for the transport department.

Reports from the scene said passengers were rescued by fishermen who brought them to shore in small dories.

Because of shallow water and shoals the ship's crew wouldn't risk launching lifeboats.

The Cabot Strait, built in Scotland in 1947 and put into the North Sydney-Port Aux Basques service the same year, is 261 feet long.

She is resting about 100 yards from the rocky shore, but reports say it is nearly impossible to see that far because of the blizzard buffeting her.

The captain, who appealed for small rescue dories after his ship grounded, did not mention possible damage to the vessel.

This was the first major accident on the North Sydney-Port Aux Basques run since 1942 when the Caribou was sunk by a torpedo, claiming 137 lives.

The Cabot Strait is one of two ships operating on the run.

U.S. Plane Explodes, 12 Killed

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP)—A four-engine U.S. Air Force weather reconnaissance plane crashed and exploded into flames shortly after its takeoff from Eielson Air Force Base early today. There were no survivors.

The WB-29 planes normally carry a crew of 12 on their weather flights.

The weather plane was one of the converted models of the Boeing B-29 Superfortress of the Second World War.

PM Would Welcome Visit by Macmillan

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada will invite Prime Minister Harold Macmillan to this country "if and when" the new British leader accepts an invitation to visit the United States, Prime Minister St. Laurent said today.

"I hope his engagements would make it possible for him to accept," Mr. St. Laurent said in the Commons.

U.K. Won't Be Satellite Of U.S.—Macmillan

LONDON (Reuters)—Prime Minister Macmillan said tonight Britain does not intend to part from the United States but added, "We don't intend to be satellites."

Macmillan, who became premier last week after the resignation of Sir Anthony Eden, said he is sure the U.S. does not want Britain to be a satellite.

He added: "The stronger we are, the better partners we shall be. And I feel certain that as the months pass by we shall draw continually closer together with mutual confidence and respect."

NO ELECTION

The prime minister also made it clear his Conservative government intends to stay in office for the three years remaining in its term. He said: "There's going to be no general election."

He said that he believes history will justify Britain's action in invading Egypt.

Difficulties, such as the shortage of gasoline and oil, now facing the country were the price of that action "but the price of inaction, the price we would have had to pay for letting

Toscanini Funeral Saturday

NEW YORK (AP)—The body of maestro Arturo Toscanini, musical genius beloved by millions for more than two generations, will lie in state for public viewing today and Friday.

Toscanini, 89, died in his sleep Wednesday morning at his home following a stroke.

There will be a solemn requiem mass in St. Patrick's Cathedral at 10 a.m. Saturday. Later his body will be flown to Italy for burial in the family chapel in Milan.

Gets Away With $970

An armed robber held up the treasury office at Victoria City Hall at 12.40 p.m. today and escaped with $970.

Victim of the hold-up was relief cashier Miss Freddie Scherbaum, 2814 Parkview.

She said he walked into the treasury office—to the right of the main entrance to city hall—and shoved a hand-gun, a revolver or pistol, across the counter.

He shielded the gun with a newspaper.

Miss Scherbaum scooped out bills, later found to total $970, and gave them to the man. An additional $455 in bills and $50 in change was in the cash drawer.

The man is believed to have left city hall by the Pandora Street entrance.

He was described as of slight build, wearing a light green or beige mackinaw jacket, and a grey hat. Age was estimated as between 35 and 40.

Cashier Waved, Man Walked Out

Val Speed, stenographer, and Lynda Barker, machine operator, told The Times they saw the cashier waving her arms above her head. "It didn't mean anything to us," said Miss Speed.

"Next thing we saw was a man walking quickly out of the office."

Ralph Wherry, taxidermist at 629 Pandora, was returning to his store from a coffee shop at about 12.30 when he noticed a man running across Pandora

Avenue from the City Hall, and heading toward Broad Street.

"I thought nothing about it—only that he was running to catch a bus," Mr. Wherry said. "I couldn't describe him. My only impression is of a man running at an angle across Pandora from the City Hall toward Broad."

Last holdup in Victoria was across the street just a week ago Monday in the Royal Bank of Canada, when some $1,400 was taken. The bandit was apprehended in Seattle and pleaded guilty.

Girl Cried: 'It's a Hold-Up'

Frank Robinson, 1039 Bank Street, assistant lands commissioner, was 20 feet from the cashier's window, but knew nothing of the holdup until the man fled left the office and the cashier cried: "It's a holdup."

There were just one or two customers in the office at the time. All off-duty detectives have been called in. Other police departments in the area, including RCMP detachments, have been notified and asked to co-operate.

At press time no road blocks had been set up.

Watches were being posted at steamship docks and the Patricia Bay airport.

Miss Scherbaum and Miss Barker were at city police station for further questioning. Both had a good look at the robber.

Rumors that a suspect had been picked up shortly after 1 p.m. were denied by police.

Inoculation Refused
EDMONTON (CP)—Parents of three children who died from diphtheria at St. Paul last week had forbidden on "religious grounds" the inoculation of the children, health department officials said today.

"The total of the strength and wealth in all these communities, commonwealth and Europe, is no less than that of the two giant powers."

Macmillan foreshadowed a policy of cutting Britain's defence burden by saying: "We must carry our fair share, but not more than our fair share." (See also page 2.)

Federally-Run Tech Schools Aim of Fairey

Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA—In a speech which ranged from federal aid for technical schools to the internal workings of UNESCO, Dr. Frank Fairey, Liberal MP for Victoria, came up with two major proposals in the House of Commons Wednesday.

The former deputy minister of education in B.C. and director of technical education from 1938 to 1945, said in the Throne Speech debate:

1. The federal government should some day take over the complete job of technical education, including construction of several big technical colleges.

2. The administration of UNESCO should be overhauled because it is now slack, and lacks efficiency.

Dr. Fairey was a member of a Canadian delegation that attended the ninth general conference of the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization, held late last year at New Delhi.

Dr. Fairey said Canada should not continue to rely, as it had, on immigration to provide skilled personnel.

SIGNIFICANT

The proposal to grant federal aid to technical education was welcomed by Dr. Fairey as a significant item in the Speech from the Throne.

He said he had urged in practically every speech he had made in the Commons that something be done for that class of workers who should comprise the skilled artisans.

There was a great gap in the Canadian training program between, on the one hand, secondary education and on the other, university education where those who are entering professional ranks are trained.

INADEQUATE

In between these groups Canada had large numbers—who the bulk of its population—who were ultimately to provide the trained workers, the skilled workers or artisans. Training facilities for them, up to now, have been extremely inadequate, he said.

While he welcomed the large grants that were being given to the universities it was his hope that when the sum of money which is to be assigned, to technical education is announced it will be equally generous.

Dr. Fairey devoted the major portion of his speech to a report on the November conference of UNESCO.

The Canadian delegation, he said, believed that the administration of UNESCO could stand considerable improvement, but at the same time the Canadians recognized the difficulties involved in bringing about such improvement.

WATERED-DOWN

They proposed at the conference that a firm of business consultants be called in to examine the procedures in the secretariat. What was finally passed was a "watered-down" resolution suggesting that a number of business experts be borrowed from a number of the member states, to carry out a survey job on the secretariat, Dr. Fairey said.

There are 80-member nations participating in UNESCO, and this posed a difficult problem on reaching agreement

U.S. Firms Confirm Gas Import Talks

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Two meetings have been held on a compromise plan for importing natural gas from Canada, but no decision has been reached, John F. Merriam, president of Northern Natural Gas Co., Omaha, said Wednesday. No further meetings have been scheduled, he added.

The compromise proposal involves Tennessee Natural Gas Co., its affiliate, Midwest Natural Gas Co., Northern American Natural Gas Co., and People's Gas, Light and Coke Co. Northern, American and People's offered the compromise in an effort to resolve a dispute over proposals for Northern and Midwestern to bring Canadian gas into the same markets in some of the northern states. They opposed Midwestern's move on the grounds it was an invasion of their markets.

A Federal Power Commission hearing, in which there are more than 100 intervenors, has been started, but now is in recess.

Merriam said that under the proposal Northern, American, People's and Tennessee would share equally in the ownership of Midwestern, which would become an independently managed transmission firm. The compromise would provide that Northern, American and People's would purchase all the gas imported by Midwestern, and would distribute it to their present markets as well as to the markets proposed to be served by Midwestern in the same areas.

Merriam said Northern, which had been seeking for several years to import Canadian gas, had made a contract with Trans-Canada for the gas and an FPC hearing was held in 1955 on its application for authority to import gas.

HEARING STALLS
Trans-Canada was unable to deliver gas in the year contemplated by Northern and the hearing was put over. Subsequently Merriam said, Midwestern and Trans-Canada made a contract and Midwestern applied for FPC approval. He said the compromise was proposed in an effort to resolve the conflict and speed up the delivery of gas.

42 YEARS IN MOVEMENT

Barrie New Leader Of Labor Council

Robert Barrie, for five years president of the old Victoria Trades and Labor Council, Wednesday edged out former Victoria Labor Council secretary Percy Rayment to become the new VLC president.

The vote was 59 to 37. Mr. Barrie, who succeeds Jack MacKenzie, is president of Federal 128, Chemical and Explosives Workers, James Island. Aged 54, he has been associated with the labor movement 42 years. His home here is at 4320 Douglas.

Five were nominated as president but all but two, including Mr. MacKenzie, declined. Successor to Mr. Rayment as secretary is A. W. Toone, president of Local 276, Sheet Metal Workers' International Association.

Tribute, Presentation to Retiring Secretary

Mr. Rayment, secretary since 1949, has left to become full-time business agent for Vancouver Island Civic Employees' Association.

Retiring president, Mr. MacKenzie, in making a presentation of a television set to Mr. Rayment, said "the prestige we (the labor movement) enjoys in this area is due in a large degree to him."

The new president, Mr. Barrie, for the past year has been first vice-president of the 10,000-member VLC.

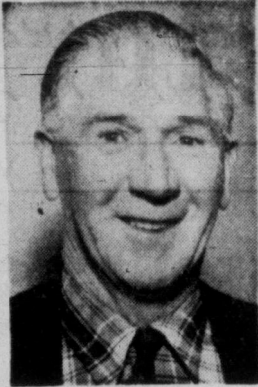

Elected first vice-president was E. T. Staley, secretary, provincial council of carpenters, who got 52 votes as against his opposition, Ed Haw, IWA secretary, who garnered 36 votes.

There were 96 eligible voters in the Labor Temple meeting representing 44 affiliated organizations.

Mr. Haw drew 50 votes to top Mrs. Betty Graham of the office employees union, who received 46 votes, to take the post of second vice-president.

Elected to head committees were:

Legislative, Percy Rayment, with 50 votes; organization, Earl Allen, laborers, with 71 votes; credentials, C. M. Preston, boiler-makers, by acclamation; public relations, James Moffat, carpenters, by acclamation; education, Cliff Parker,

U.K. Reported Ready To End Conscription

LONDON (Reuters) — Speculation that Britain is planning further major cuts in defence spending—including a reduction of manpower—became firmer today with reports that conscription will be abolished and replaced with the U.S. system of selective service.

The Daily Herald reports as a fact that "selection by ballot on the American pattern" is one of four new methods of call-up which the new cabinet is considering.

The Conservative Daily Mail banner lines a report that "conscription in its present form is to be abolished," and the new form of selection "is expected to be on the U.S. pattern."

The Problem

I AM always faintly startled by those magazine articles with peaceful pictures of parents and children discussing a family problem and coming up with the perfect answer.

Our family can't even answer the questions which arise from that astounding course known as Health and Personal Development. They stimulate us mentally, without a doubt, but the answers are far, far beyond us.

Take last weekend, for instance.

"How much have I cost you since I was born?" asked a 15-year-old as I was struggling with a shirt that is an absolute brute to iron.

"Search me. Millions," I said, and wrestled with the shirt sleeves.

"Quit fooling, Mum," said another son. "This is homework for H and PD. He's got to have the answer."

"Well, I don't know it," I said. "I've never assessed any of you kids in terms of dollars and cents. You've cost me headaches and heartaches and a few grey hairs, but I can't possibly figure it out in cold hard cash."

"What about my clothes and food?" he asked.

"I honestly don't know," I said. "Dad and I have been so busy raising you all, that we have never figured out the cost per child. Anyway, I couldn't possibly go back 15 years and figure out all the diapers and safety pins and baby stuff. Of course there was the kitchen window when you were a little older. Three times in a single year you broke it."

"And the rear window of your old roadster, Mum," said an older brother.

"What about the veranda rail?"

Ruth

"Well, you backed the truck up and ran over a bike. And that cost more than the veranda rail."

"Boys," I said. "Let's stick with the flights of 1957 instead of dragging up the crises of all those years ago."

"Put down $1,000," said Older Brother. "No!" I said. "It can't have been as much as that."

"It's a good round figure," he said. "He's got to put something, Mum. He can't just leave it blank."

"Question 2," said Worried Student. "How much a year do I cost you now?"

"No idea," I said.

"To make it accurate," observed my husband, "we should deduct from that what you are worth to us."

We never did find the answer to that one. It was lost in arguments about who is always slithering out of chores.

And, of course, I've laid this on a bit. But my thoughts and sympathies have certainly gone out to other parents who may have struggled with these same questions.

Just for the fun of it, I'd like to ask a few questions.

Isn't it rather disgusting to measure human relationships by the yardstick of the dollar sign?

Does this sort of knowledge really prepare a student for "Wise Parenthood"?

Can any lively family settle down to a discussion of this kind without seeing the humor of it?

Did the person who drew up this course ever give a thought to the parents who had to struggle with the answers?

Do the teachers who correct this homework really think the answers are anything more than the wildest hit-and-miss?

Dr. Walter C. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation.

A while ago a number of printers working in a press-room began to complain that they couldn't any longer enjoy their beer. When they drank, their faces would get red and swollen, their ears would get red, their noses would become stuffy, they would feel warm in the face, and they would get drowsy. Evidently, they were being affected by some chemical that they were using. Soon, Drs. Wm. Lewis and Louis Schwartz, of Washington, D.C., reported that after much detective work they had found the trouble was due to the use of an "anti-skimming" compound in the inks used—especially in yellow ink. It was found that the men at the plant where the ink was being made were also having trouble. The chemical at fault is known as a butyraldoxime.

Dr. Alvarez

Since I have mentioned this drug and Antabuse—another substance that makes a man uncomfortable when he drinks—many women have asked where they can buy these chemicals. They want to sneak them into their husband's food or drink. As I tell these women, I doubt if this procedure would work well. About all that would happen would be that when the husband found out what had been done to him, he would be very angry. So far as I know, no one is going to get over alcoholism unless he very much wants to, and will make great efforts to do so. As that wise old Roman, Seneca, said, "It is part of the cure to wish to be cured." If a man wants to take one of these drugs in order to punish himself if he falls from grace and takes a drink, that is all right, but the man must elect to do this. His wife or his doctor cannot do it for him.

ANIMALS INHERIT TEMPERAMENTS

I doubt if psychoanalysts would ever have advanced their weird theories of the causation of mental troubles if they had only known more about the great inborn and inherited differences in the personalities of animals. For instance, in the famous Yerkes Laboratory in Florida in which many chimpanzees have been reared and studied psychologically, it has been noted that from birth they have decidedly individual personalities and temperaments. Some are affectionate and good-natured, while others are not; some are unusually intelligent, while others are a bit stupid; some are easy-going, while others are belligerent and demanding.

I was just reading of work done in 1944 by Frederick C. Thorne, who bred an unusually shy and unfriendly Bassett bitch to four males of different breeds. Of the 59 puppies, 43 grew to be unusually shy and unfriendly animals. Only 16 could be taught to be friendly in their approach to strangers. I once bought a pedigree Persian cat that was so bad-tempered and so inclined to sink her claws into my hand that I had to give her away to a breeder.

This breeder told me that my cat had inherited her bad temper from her father and grandfather. They were notorious in cat-breeding circles.

In 1896 Sir Francis Galton wrote about three generations of "lunatic cats." Recently, Dr. Roscoe B. Jackson reported the breeding of a strain of bad-tempered and quarrelsome mice. There is a strain of small Siamese fish in which the members are always attacking each other. Strains of animals have been bred in which many of the individuals suffer from convulsions, suggesting epilepsy.

As Galton wrote some 70 years ago, it is strange that while we men and women are perfectly willing to study the laws of inheritance of health and disease in animals, and willing to accept and use to great advantage all the facts of observation on genetics in animals, many of us balk when it comes to facing the mass of facts that show that these laws hold good for man also. Any interested person can go to a big library and find many scientific journals and books, all filled with facts of observation to prove that many of the diseases of man are inherited according to the well-known laws, worked out during a century of breeding plants and animals.

Sometimes one of these laws can be very encouraging as when it assures a man in a disease-ridden family that, since he does not carry the taint, he cannot transmit it to his descendants, and hence, his children and grandchildren are safe (unless they get the trouble from "in-laws").

FOR UNIQUE RESEARCH

$80,000 U.S. Grant For B.C. Scientist

A grant of $80,000 from the United States Public Health Service has been made to B.C. Research Council chemist Dr. H. G. Khorana for his fundamental studies in chemistry of living substances, the council announced today.

Dr. Khorana since 1952 has been leading a team of organic chemists in studies on the chemical constitution of substances which make up the nuclei of living cells, believed largely responsible for transmission of hereditary characteristics. His work has drawn international attention.

UNIQUE WORK

The U.S. Health Service does not normally make awards outside the U.S., and the grant underlines the fact the work is unique on this continent.

The money will be used for purchase of special equipment and to establish fellowships which will enable researchers to spend a year or more as members of Dr. Khorana's group at the B.C. Research Council.

Metal Firm President Puts Premium on Brain

BEAUMONT, Texas (AP)—Lloyd C. McManus, 37-year-old president of the Southern Iron & Metal Company, has insured his brain for $100,000 with Lloyd's. "I make my living with my brain," McManus said. He said the policy will run 10 years but declined to reveal premiums.

TURN-ABOUT FAIR PLAY OREGONIAN TELLS CITY

John Patrie, Frying Pan Creek, "on the rugged coast of Oregon" is a man who loves scenery.

Part of his favorite view contains a sign planted by Victoria Publicity Bureau inviting Oregonians to follow the birds to Victoria.

Mr. Patrie isn't unappreciative of the invitation, but he wrote city council Wednesday asking if he could be permitted to erect a sign of similar size in a park-like area here inviting Victorians to visit Oregon.

No action was taken on his letter by public works committee. It will be referred to the publicity bureau.

BETWEEN TIMES By MONTE ROBERTS

So Judy Boots Streak thinks all I am suffering from is a snuffle, a sneeze, and a snarl.

The snuffle and the sneeze I will admit to. But not the snarl.

I am the most good natured man I know. Just because I happened to tell Judy Boots Streak a few home truths about the way she and her friends carry on is no reason to accuse me of being snarly.

Just to prove it, I am having JB confined to barracks for only eight hours as punishment for making dogatory remarks. Which is very light punishment indeed, you must agree.

But to get back to pleasant topics, thanks for all the cards and letters and phone calls. Especially the one which said "Monday's and Tuesday's columns were the funniest you ever wrote."

Perhaps you were wondering why I am devoting all this space to references to a slight ailment affecting the respiratory organs.

It is not because I wish to call attention to the fact I am slowly recovering from the most malevolent cold ever to attack a being, human or otherwise.

It is because I am a member of the Loyal and Benevolent Order of Columnists, and must, as such, abide by the rules and regulations of the order.

And one of the strictest rules is paragraph two, section A, consolidated interpretation of how to be happy though columning.

"No columnist, in the event of being stricken with a cold, sprained typewriter finger, wrenched elbow or other ailment, shall fail to take advantage of such ailment to use a report on same as an excuse to fill his allotted space on his return to what is laughingly called work."

Since Sam Pepys successfully started filling pages of his journal with accounts of his various ailments, it is estimated 2,407 tons of newsprint have been used up describing columnar disabilities.

But, frankly, I think I've already used up my share. At-choo! I have spoken.

College Teacher Honored

$2,000 Scholarship For Ann Saddlemeyer

Professor of English at Victoria College, Miss Ann Saddlemeyer, has been awarded a $2,000 IODE scholarship for post-graduate study overseas.

The award was made by the Provincial IODE Chapter in Saskatchewan. Miss Saddlemeyer is the first Saskatchewan student to be awarded one of the order's four post-graduate overseas scholarships from War Memorial II.

Later this year, Miss Saddlemeyer will enroll at the University of London where she will work towards a doctor of philosophy degree majoring in Irish drama.

Since her appointment to the Victoria College staff in September, she has been teaching first-year English.

Born in Prince Albert, Sask., in 1932, Miss Saddlemeyer received her high school training in Humboldt, Sask., where her parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Saddlemeyer, still reside.

DISTINCTION
She graduated "with distinction" in 1950 from the University of Saskatchewan, with a BA degree in English and Psychology.

She received an honors bursary in English in May, 1954, and high honors in English in May, 1955.

Miss Saddlemeyer entered Queen's University in 1955 and was awarded the R. Samuel McLaughlin Resident Fellowship of $900 in 1955 and a further summer supplement of $600.

For presentation of thesis material in March, 1955, she received the Andrina McCulloch prize. In September, 1956, Miss Saddlemeyer received her master of arts degree in English. She will be laureated in May, 1957.

RETIRING at the end of January after 30 years' service with the Canadian Pacific is Capt. George A. Thomson, who joined CPSS Princess Victoria in 1927 as third officer. Captain Thomson brought four of the CPR's newest vessels to this coast from the builder's yards in Scotland — the Princesses Patricia and Marguerite, the Princess of Nanaimo and the Princess of Vancouver. During the Second World War, from 1939 to 1942, he served with the RCN, and until 1945 was on loan to the Canadian Australian Line. He has served as master of most of the vessels in the B.C. Coast Service of the CPR.

Depreciation Fund Plan Gets Approval

One-Way Streets Trial Planned

City council public works committee approved Wednesday night a proposed depreciation replacement fund for vital services at low annual cost to the city.

Outlined by city engineer James Garnett, the system would ensure continual replacement and maintenance of roads, sewers, storm drains and waterworks without going to the expense of a high debenture issue every few years.

Such a fund, already in effect for waterworks in the city, would stabilize the public works budget from year to year insofar as the vital services are concerned.

"Victoria is in an advantageous position now because all these vital services are in need of maintenance but not complete renewal," said Mr. Garnett.

Committee members heard a broad outline of public works plans for 1957, but the engineer made particular reference to "desirability of depreciation replacement as a sound means of ensuring development standard and maintenance in perpetuity of vital services without carrying any further capital expenditures."

An present $100,000 per annum is allowed for waterworks replacement and depreciation, ensuring a high quality of waterworks forever, said the engineer.

TRIAL BASIS
Traffic recommendations received some opposition, but the mayor proposal of trying out a revised plan for the Fountain Circle and making parts of Government and Douglas one-way, will be recommended for six-months trial at the next meeting of council.

Mayor Percy Scurreh stated he would vote against the plan, laid out by traffic consultant Jackson Faustman after a detailed survey of local traffic problems last year.

It would mean making sandbag islands and temporary traffic signals at the Fountain, placing one-way restriction on Government southbound from Hillside to Herald and on Douglas northbound from Herald to Hillside.

There was argument over whether Herald or Princess should be the cross-over street, or the first place on the one-way portions where left turns would be permitted.

MAYOR AGAINST
The mayor said he did not care where it was put, he would vote against the plan.

"I'm not sold yet on the necessity of one-way streets in that area."

"Authorities say, on the basis of experience in the U.S., one-way streets are desirable only when conditions become intolerable."

"My thought is that conditions are not yet intolerable at the Fountain Circle," said the mayor.

'Spent Awful Week' Suspect Told Police

Negligence Charged in City Crash

Drivers Escape; Cars Demolished

Drivers of two cars which were demolished in a head-on crash on Bay Street early today both escaped serious injury.

One of the drivers, Harvey V. Erickson, Denman Street, was taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital but was released after treatment for bruises.

The other driver, Victor Yablonski, 1222 Yates, was arrested at the scene for criminally negligent driving.

He appeared in city police court today, pleaded not guilty, and was remanded to Jan. 28 for trial. Bail was set at $250.

The collision occurred a few minutes after midnight about 65 feet east of Chambers. Police said both cars were a total loss.

TWO INJURED
In another two-car collision at Belleville and Douglas at 10.15 a.m. today, two men were injured and taken to Naden Hospital.

Hospital officials said Cpl. Ormond Lester Anquet, QOR, and Gordon Douglas Kirton, Work Point Barracks, were not seriously hurt. X-rays were being taken at noon to determine the extent of their injuries.

Police said Kirton was a passenger in a car driven by Anquet. Driver of the second car was not identified.

Two cars were heavily damaged in a crack-up at Courtney and Douglas at 11 p.m. Wednesday night, but the occupants were not badly hurt.

The two drivers, Philip G. Holmes, 3191 Admirals, and Robert D. Stapleton, 496 Vancouver, went to St. Joseph's Hospital for a check-up and released.

Police said a woman passenger was cut on the knee but refused hospital treatment.

Norris Worried Over Delay In Beach Project

Reeve Fred Norris of Oak Bay today expressed concern over provincial cabinet delay in implementing the already approved $90,000 beautification project for the Willows Beach and Uplands Park area.

The project, while approved by the Capital Improvement District Commission, still needs cabinet endorsement before a start can be made.

The reeve said the plans for the project had been in cabinet hands several months.

"I do not understand the delay," he said.

The project would include a promenade along Esplanade in front of Willows Beach and into Uplands Park. Parking spaces and "other improvements" would be provided, the reeve said.

TODAY'S BEEFS

Jan. 8 at 5 p.m. I was making a left turn from Richmond on to Lansdowne, at which intersection there is a four-way stop. The first car making the stop has the right of way, which in this case was a car driving north on Richmond. My car coming from north was second on intersection but I was surprised to find another car going north following the first car through without even making the proper stop. This was not only discourteous but also could have resulted in an accident.

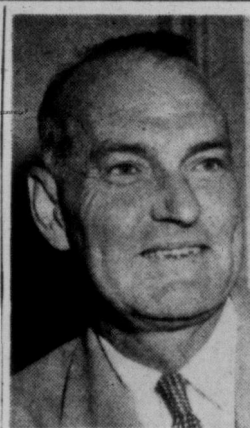

R.G.B.

Jan. 10, at 12 noon, I was proceeding north on Douglas approaching the Roundabout at about Hillside, driving alongside and on the left side of a B.C. Electric bus, and about even with it. The bus suddenly slackened speed and, as the bus prevented me from seeing to my right, I pulled to a sudden stop. It was well I did, because there was another bus coming off Hillside, round in front of the bus on my right. I was so close to the second bus when he passed in front of me, if he had another coat of paint I would have hit him.

At 5.50 p.m., Jan. 10, while driving west on Fort Street and when at Pentrele Place a pedestrian cross-walk, with an auto parked at the north curb a few feet east of the cross-walk. An elderly man dressed in dark clothes stepped from the north sidewalk to proceed south on the cross-walk. Traffic was heavy and proceeding east and west at the time. The location is rather dark for a cross-walk. Regardless of traffic the man walked right into the on-coming traffic. Lucky for the man, the drivers had their eyes on the road, also good brakes, or there would have been another dead duck for the morgue.

H. L. CROMBIE

Manager Of Chamber Quits Post

Hector L. Crombie has tendered his resignation as managing secretary of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, it was learned today.

He plans to enter private business.

G. F. "Pat" Dunn, chairman of the chamber's ways and means committee, in confirming the resignation tender, said he was shocked to hear that Mr. Crombie was giving up his office.

COMMUNITY LOSS

"Mr. Crombie has done excellent work for the chamber," he said. "His resignation is a loss to the community."

Mr. Crombie has served for six and one-half years with the chamber and was appointed to his present office three years ago. He previously worked for the Bank of Montreal.

Mr. Crombie is also an executive of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce and secretary-treasurer of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island.

Requiem Mass For Victoria Sawmill Official

Requiem mass was celebrated at St. Andrew's Cathedral Wednesday for John Mooney, 42, foreman of Victoria Sawmill Division of B.C. Forest Products, who died suddenly Saturday.

A mill man all his life, he had worked for B.C. Forest Products and its predecessor since 1936. Subsequently he won the Chemainus Trophy for lumber grading, joined the Pacific Lumber Inspection Bureau, and established a reputation as one of the most capable and safety conscious mill executives in B.C.

Heavy Fuel Oil Boost Coming

Standard Oil in British Columbia is expected to increase the price of heavy fuel oil 15 cents a barrel "almost immediately" following a similar boost in the western United States, a company spokesman said today.

Heavy fuel oil is used by large industrial plants and by pulp and paper manufacturing to generate steam.

These heavy oils are imported into British Columbia from California as there is no refining equipment here handling such fuels.

The company in California said increased prices are due to general increases in crude and other costs. Standard today increased the price of gasoline half a cent in California, Oregon, Washington, Nevada and Hawaii but it is not expected the increase there will be reflected in British Columbia.

Any boost in gasoline prices would follow the recent increase of price at the wellheads in Canada, ranging from 13 to 18 cents a barrel.

"This will doubtless have to be absorbed, but we have had no word as yet," the Standard spokesman here said.

$100,000 Building For Realtors

A new $100,000 two-story office building for Ker and Stephenson, real estate firm, will be built at the corner of Vancouver and Fort Streets, it was announced today.

Construction is expected to start next month after tenders close Feb. 8 from a selected list of contractors.

The structure, which will feature a courtyard, will be on the southeast corner of Fort. The real estate firm plans to use the lower floor and rent the upper as office space.

John Armour of Wade, Stockdill and Armour is architect.

REV. R. W. POPMA

Minister Arrives From Amsterdam For City Church

Rev. R. W. Popma arrived with his family from Amsterdam Wednesday to become the first minister of the new Christian Reformed Church here.

Forty-four years old, he was born in Holland and served with the Dutch Reformed Church in Surabaya, Indonesia, for the past 11 years.

Mr. and Mrs. Popma speak English well, but with heavy Dutch overtones. They learned the language at high school.

"We lived in little country. We have to learn languages," Mrs. Popma explained.

Their eldest daughter Alice, 15, picked up some English in Surabaya, but the other children—Margaret, 13, Harold, 12, Jacqueline, eight, Violet, six, and Caroline, three—speak Dutch only.

Services in the Christian Reformed Church, formerly Oaklands Gospel Hall, will be conducted in the Dutch language until Mr. Popma has a surer grasp of English.

He will preach his first services Sunday.

Frederick Parkinson, 906 Admirals, made the remark to Const. Roy Foster after being told he was charged in connection with an accident at Craigflower and Raynor in which 72-year-old pedestrian Clement S. Gibbs was killed.

ADMISSIBLE
A further statement made to police by Parkinson was ruled admissible by Magistrate H. C. Hall during the second day of the trial in city police court today.

In the statement, Parkinson gave an account of his movements on the afternoon of Dec. 15.

He said he drove his truck from downtown Victoria to the Safeway store on Esquimalt Road and then continued home.

"As far as I know I went home on Esquimalt Road," Parkinson said.

COULDN'T REMEMBER

He told police that he usually went to his home by way of Esquimalt Road but couldn't positively remember that day.

Parkinson said that after he had been inside his house for a short time he went outside again and was "surprised" to see his truck astraddle the sidewalk.

"I also saw that the truck bonnet was sprung and I was worried about that because it wasn't like that when I went out in the afternoon."

In the statement, Parkinson also said he had made "wild statements" to police who questioned him at his home a few hours after the accident, which occurred at 6 p.m.

TRUCK SEIZED
The truck, a one-ton, open-backed Fargo, was seized by police on Dec. 15 and examined by Sgt. S. P. Jones of the RCMP identification branch.

It was entered as an exhibit at the close of today's hearing and the trial was adjourned until next Wednesday.

Under cross-examination by defence counsel James Proudfoot, Sgt. Jones admitted that impressions of a fabric found on the front of the truck could have come from more than one piece of material.

In previous testimony, Sgt. Jones said the impressions matched the fabric of a raincoat worn by Gibbs on the night he was killed.

Ocean Experts Start Parley Here Friday

About 50 oceanographers and student oceanographers of Canada and the United States will attend the sixth annual conference of Pacific Northwest Oceanographers to be held Friday and Saturday at the Pacific Naval Laboratory in HMC Dockyard, Esquimalt.

Dr. W. L. Ford, superintendent of the PNL, and members of his staff have planned a full itinerary for the visiting scientists to review progress in the field of oceanography during the past year and compare notes on the future program. Theme is "Times Series in Oceanographic Observations."

Oceanographers and students attending are from the University of Washington, University of British Columbia and the Pacific Oceanographic Group at Nanaimo. They will include: Dr. Thomas Thompson, professor of oceanography, noted authority in this field, and Dr. Richard Fleming (formerly of Victoria), director of the department of oceanography, from the University of Washington; Professor W. A. Clemens, director of the Institute of Oceanography, University of British Columbia and Dr. J. P. Tully, oceanographer-in-charge, Pacific Oceanographic Group, Nanaimo.

Those attending the meeting from the University of Washington will arrive here at 10 a.m. Friday, in the research vessel Brown Bear, from Seattle.

ASK The TIMES

Q.—Will you please tell me if television personality Ed Sullivan and the late Humphrey Bogart were brothers?—M.B.T.

A.—Questions such as this sometimes crop up, usually because of a facial resemblance between two persons. Biographical records make it plain Sullivan was not a brother of Bogart. "Who's Who in America" lists actor Bogart as the son of Belmont DeForest Bogart and his wife Maude, born Dec. 25, 1899, in New York City.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published freely.

Kiddies Love Desserts Made In Menagerie Jelly Molds

By PENNY SAVER

An ordinary Thursday evening dinner can be something really special for the youngsters in your house if you use a little imagination in the dessert-making. Gelatin and moulded desserts offer unlimited possibilities for party-like dishes. Individual jelly moulds shaped like tiny animals will be claimed by the children as "theirs." Rabbits or frogs, in metal moulds, are available for just six cents apiece. A menagerie dessert would be fun for a change. You can add the extra decorative touches yourself and enjoy the experiment.

In the midst of the many sales still going on in town, I saw blue serge school uniforms selling for just $3.32. For those fast-growing youngsters who seem to just shoot out of their clothes, this is a good buy. Also at a special price are cotton uniform blouses in white. These are $1.99. Children attending private schools here in Victoria can benefit from these reduced priced items. A large size can always be put away for next year.

Into another department, entirely, here are new-as-new shortie gloves for cocktail and evening wear. They're of soft, black velvet, and have dainty cuff buttons.

The palms of the gloves are of a smooth fabric, that will withstand much wear. With black velvet so popular this year (you'll see it in dresses, suits, coats and accessories) these gloves will serve you well. One of the most appealing features, aside from the top fashion notes, that we see in these gloves is the wonderful price. They're $3.95. A luxury glove at a price that suits your budget!

Trays, tubs, buckets and waste baskets — next on the shopping list. When you see the novel ones I found, you'll be just as interested in them as I am. You have a choice of a black background or an orange background. On these startling colors are prints of well-known liquor and liquor labels.

The bright splashes of color in these miniature labels gives the buckets and trays a gay look. Various sizes in trays cost $3.75, $4 and $5.50. Waste baskets are $5.50 and ice or pop buckets, $6.75. Larger tubs, with the same label patterns are $10.95. They're made in Germany.

Call me at 2-3131 and I'll tell you where to buy the items mentioned here in the column.

Pythian Sisters Install Officers

Flint as grand manager. Officers installed were past chief, Mrs. Ann Tasker, pro tem; M.E.C., Mrs. A. Banks; excellent senior, Mrs. A. Carlson; excellent junior, Mrs. N. Stokes; manager, Mrs. C. Mullen; secretary, Miss Vera Mesher; treasurer, Mrs. M. Urwin; protector, Mrs. H. Johnson, and guard, Mrs. A. M. Nordby. Mrs. V. Bayly was pianist for the evening.

Corsages of red carnations added color to the white formal of all officers taking part in the ceremonies. Mrs. A. Banks, serving her second term as most excellent chief, was presented with her past chief's certificate and jewels by past grand chief Vera Mesher. Mrs. N. Ryan was elected grand representative, with Mrs. M. Urwin as alternate. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting. Visitors were present from Hamilton, Ontario; Trail, Courtenay and Capital City Temple No. 35.

DRESSED FOR DANCING

A bell-shaped skirt topped by a bodice embroidered in pearl and crystal are features of this blue satin bouffant ball gown worn by Mrs. Richard Nixon, wife of the United States vice-president. She selected the gown for wear at the inaugural ball next Monday evening. A matching blue satin handbag, on table, decorated in crystal and pearl completes the ensemble. —(AP wirephoto)

Gives Special Help to Those on Marathon

I want to give one day a week during the time my Eight-Week Self-Improvement Marathon is running to help you reach the goal you are shooting for.

Already calls are coming in asking when the Marathon Booklet will reach readers. I receive a tremendous number of requests for the booklet and we are getting them out to you just as rapidly as we possibly can, with an extra staff of secretaries.

When your booklet reaches you, read it over carefully. Follow the directions faithfully. The directions are important to your success. Count your eight weeks from the time you receive instructions.

All of the most usual defects in beauty are covered in the booklet but if you have some special problem which is not, I will be glad to give you even more personal help.

Send your letters in immediately and I will discuss any troubles you mention in a future column about them. Have a heart though! Please make your letter short since I am deluged with mail at the present time.

It is a good idea to give your skin special lubrication when you are reducing. A body lotion is also a fine idea. When on a slimming diet your fat intake is lower than usual. Also the pad of fat underneath the skin is decreasing. In winter the skin is drier anyway.

I would like to call your attention to the "Eight Weeks to Popularity" section at the back of the Marathon booklet. I think you will enjoy grading yourself. You may not show up very well at first, when you are eating less than usual and have a few sore muscles. However, I feel sure that you will find that your personality will improve as your energy increases and you become more satisfied with the way you look.

Remember! It is probably now or never! Procrastination is a strong habit but now you have company all over the country, thousands of women who are indulging in self-improvement with the Marathon routine.

I also am getting letters from readers who want to know if it is too late to join Marathon. If some of you failed to join last week and would like to do so now send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for the Marathon booklet. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

TODAY'S RECIPE

Here's a new calorie conscious dessert that looks as attractive as those holiday treats just past. Three cups liquefied nonfat dry milk or skim milk; 3 slices bread; 3 eggs; 1 tablespoon SUCARYL solution or 24 tablets, crushed; 1 teaspoon vanilla; cinnamon and nutmeg.

Scald the milk in a one-quart saucepan. Meanwhile, cube the bread and place it in a one-quart casserole. Combine the eggs, SUCARYL and vanilla; then blend into the scalded milk. Pour this over the bread cubes.

If you wish, sprinkle top with cinnamon and nutmeg. Set in a pan of warm water and bake in a moderate oven (325 degrees) for one hour. Makes eight servings.

For the statistically minded, if the recipe is made with SUCARYL, each serving contains 85 calories. If made with sugar, 109 calories.

Cheery Atmosphere At Open House

At the second annual open house and linen shower held in Gorge Road Hospital, Wednesday afternoon, guests enjoyed tea in a gaily-decorated ground floor room, where daffodils and foliage formed a springtime background. Vines and greenery were entwined around floor-to-ceiling pillars and from the ceiling hung white and pink "bird cage" baskets filled with brightly-tinted carnations. A large silver tray filled with moss held an arrangement of golden yellow daffodils and fern, that formed an attractive centerpiece for intersecting refreshment tables. Candles in silver candelabra reflected the yellow, completing a lovely arrangement. Decorations were convened by Mrs. E. Hansen.

RECEIVING GUESTS

The affair, hosted by the president, directors and auxiliary of the Gorge Road Hospital, drew a large crowd. Receiving guests were Mrs. C. C. Warren, acting president of the board of directors, Miss Verna Beek and Mrs. C. Aitken.

During the afternoon, guests were escorted by auxiliary members in smocks and badges

on tours of hospital departments where they viewed physio-therapy and occupational therapy work, improvements in the rooms, a new inter-communication system between patient and nursing stations and large, modern kitchen. Conducting tours were Mrs. W. McGregor, Mrs. P. M. Wolley, Mrs. L. Alton and Mrs. K. Morris. Showing occupational therapy work were Mrs. M. Brethour and Miss A. Harness.

In charge of receipts were Mrs. G. F. Hilliard, Mrs. C. Dodgson and Mrs. A. Banks. Linen donations were received by Mrs. W. Beutelspacher and Mrs. E. Hansen. Tea arrangements were convened by Mrs. R. Vickers assisted by Mrs. W. Edwards, Mrs. O. Douglas, Mrs. A. G. Hamilton and Mrs. G. Holt, and in charge of refreshments were Mrs. C. Aitken, Mrs. M. Rain, Mrs. A. Mait, Mrs. C. Campbell, Mrs. P. Windwick, Mrs. E. Munroe, Mrs. H. L. Smith, Mrs. H. Kolb, and Mrs. T. Potter.

Honor guests included honorary president, Mrs. Margaret Christie, Mrs. Percy B. Scurrah and Mrs. W. A. C. Bennett.

English Visitor Likes Life Here; Will Stay

By TERRY FRENCH

In the three years since Miss Ann Sandeman finished school in England, she has travelled many miles and seen many things.

She is at present a guest of her uncle and aunt, Dr. and Mrs. P. M. Destrube, Santa Clara Avenue.

In July when she arrived from England, she planned to spend seven months in this country and then return to her home in Richmond, London. She has changed her original plans and intends to stay here. "The country reminds me very much of home in many ways," she said, gazing out the window of the Destrube home overlooking Elk Lake.

A year and a half ago she made a tour of Italy, France and Switzerland. This gave her a taste for travel, and when the invitation to visit Canada arrived from the Destrubes, she was "thrilled." Soon she was on her way across the Atlantic aboard the Empress of Britain. "It was a wonderful trip," she smiled, recalling the crossing, "for it was only the ship's third trip, and everything was so new and exciting."

After crossing Canada by train and spending some time and forth."

Young Auxiliary Presents $1,400 To Cerebral Palsy Association

The women's auxiliary to the Cerebral Palsy Clinic, formed two years ago with eight members and grown now to 40 active members, proudly handed a cheque for $1,400 to J. G. Robison, vice-president of the Cerebral Palsy Association, yesterday evening.

Presentation was made by the auxiliary vice-president, Mrs. W. M. Martin, at second annual meeting of the group, held in the annex at the Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Retiring president, Mrs. C. H. Miller, presided and in her report stressed the main reason for which the auxiliary was formed—to supply volunteer help at the cerebral palsy clinic.

"Although our organization is young in years it is quickly becoming experienced in service," Mrs. Miller said.

VOLUNTEER WORK

As chairman of the volunteers that staff the clinic, Mrs. D. B. Ascott reported on work of 53 workers, each one giving an average of three hours a day, one day a week, in the schoolrooms, the playroom, the speech library room or with the "bunny" buses that take the young patients to and from the clinic.

Mrs. Ascott's report showed 75 active volunteers and 22 available to serve as substitutes.

There are now 51 children attending the clinic. "We are always in need of volunteers," she said, "who are willing not only to give their time but also of themselves, for a cheerful, happy attitude is of the greatest value in this work."

Treasurer's report, given by Mrs. A. J. Meyer, showed receipts for the year as $1,910.05. This included $308.30 in donations and $1,232.35 realized from various projects such as sale of minor hockey programs, rummage sales, raffles and sale of B.C. Products Fair passes. Disbursements were $1,582.17, including $287.33 for clinic expenses and a $1,000 donation to the clinic.

Report of the buying committee chairman, Mrs. T. H. Carson, showed that special textbooks for the classrooms, phonograph records, two aluminium garden chairs for the outdoor playyard, shin pads, sun bonnets and a muscle builder had been purchased.

Mrs. R. T. Copley told of the annual party for the young patients and their parents, held during the holiday season.

NEW OFFICERS

New executive members were introduced by Mrs. Miller as follows: President, Mrs. L. F. Dunn; vice-president, Mrs. Martin; treasurer, Mrs. N. H. Lawrie; recording secretary, Mrs. M. F. Brundridge; corresponding, Mrs. Copley; chairman of volunteer workers, Mrs. Ascott.

Introduced by Dr. Murray Anderson, administrator at the Royal Jubilee Hospital, Dr. J. G. McKenzie gave a short, clear talk on Rh problems and their relations to cerebral palsy and the reasons why replacement transfusions are given new born babies threatened with brain damage because of Rh positive cells. He was thanked by Mrs. Brundridge.

Recognize Middle East Problems

There can be no solution to the Suez Canal problem without some recognition of the Egyptian government and some form of international contract removing the right of refusing access from any state, according to Neil Swainson, assistant professor of education at Victoria College.

Speaking to the Women's Canadian Club on "The Middle East," Wednesday afternoon, Mr. Swainson said:

"The more I think of it, the more I see the need for a sizeable United Nations force."

Formation of an international zone between Egypt and Israel is also necessary. In this zone, which would be bought from Egypt, a free port could be built along the Gaza Strip, and new pipelines laid.

The canal situation is now inextricably associated with help."

the Arab-Israeli situation, Mr. Swainson said.

The most urgent and baffling outcome of the Arab-Israeli war, however, is the refugee problem.

Three years ago there were 872,000 refugees. The west assumed that time would heal, but with births exceeding deaths, the situation has worsened.

It is important to realize there is no peace between the Arabs and Jews, but a strained armistice.

"I feel that re-settlement is the only long-range answer, and the Arabs and Jews must have a guarantee of boundaries," said Mr. Swainson. "Re-settlement will have to be imposed," he stressed. This will call for major movement, especially to Iraq.

"There is no doubt that we will have to give this area inextricably associated with help."

One of the tragedies of the situation is that the Arabs are suspicious of the west, and regard any help with skepticism.

"The Middle East is no more immune than we are from the materialism and paganism of modern life and the people blame the new delinquencies of their sons on the influences of the west," Mr. Swainson said.

"We have every right to ask for friendship with gifts. But to start, I feel we may have to practice the last of the Beatitudes, 'do good unto them that hate you.'"

HOWE TELLS COMMONS

Trans-Canada Pipe To Repay Loans Soon

OTTAWA (BUP)—Trans Canada Pipe Lines Ltd. expects to complete the line from Alberta to Winnipeg late this summer, and the government expects the company to repay its loans soon, Trade Minister C. D. Howe told the Commons today.

Federally-Run Tech Schools Aim of Fairey

By VICTOR J. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA—In a speech which ranged from federal aid for technical schools to the internal workings of UNESCO, Dr. Frank Fairey, Liberal MP for Victoria, came up with two major proposals in the House of Commons Wednesday.

The former deputy minister of education in B.C., and director of technical education from 1938 to 1945, said in the Throne Speech debate:

1. The federal government should some day take over the complete job of technical education, including construction of several big technical colleges.

2. The administration of UNESCO should be overhauled because it is now slack, and lacks efficiency.

Dr. Fairey was a member of a Canadian delegation that attended the ninth general conference of the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization, held late last year at New Delhi.

Dr. Fairey said Canada should not continue to rely, as it had, on immigration to provide skilled personnel.

SIGNIFICANT
The proposal to grant federal aid to technical education was welcomed by Dr. Fairey as a significant item in the Speech from the Throne.

He said he had urged in practically every speech he had made in the Commons that something be done for that class of workers who should comprise the skilled artisans.

There was a great gap in the Canadian training program between, on the one hand, secondary education and on the other, university education where those who are entering professional ranks are trained.

INADEQUATE
In between these groups Canada had large numbers—the bulk of its population—who were ultimately to provide the trained workers, the skilled workers or artisans. Training facilities for them, up to now, have been extremely inadequate, he said.

While he welcomed the large grants that were being given to the universities it was his hope that when the sum of money which is to be assigned to technical education is announced it will be equally generous.

Dr. Fairey devoted the major portion of his speech to a report on the November conference of UNESCO.

The Canadian delegation, he said, believed that the administration of UNESCO could stand considerable improvement, but at the same time the Canadians recognized the difficulties involved in bringing about such improvement.

WATERED-DOWN

They proposed at the conference that a firm of business consultants be called in to examine the procedures in the secretariat. What was finally passed was a "watered-down" resolution suggesting that a number of business experts be borrowed from a number of the member states, to carry out a survey job on the secretariat, Dr. Fairey said.

There are 80-member nations participating in UNESCO, and this posed a difficult problem on reaching agreement.

Gordon Report Barbs Lrk St. Laurent

By VICTOR J. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA—A storm blew up in the Commons Wednesday over the Gordon economic commission's recommendations, with Prime Minister St. Laurent heatedly defending his government's policies as opposition members threw question after question at the cabinet.

There were no advance warnings of the storm. Cabinet ministers suddenly found themselves being queried on the commission's recommendations concerning irrigation and the Maritimes, in particular. The prime minister appeared irritated and angry while the exchange continued for 15 minutes on the question period at the opening of the House.

In the heated exchange the prime minister made these points:

1. The government regards the South Saskatchewan River water supply and irrigation project as a "borderline case." It is still not convinced that the expenditure on that project is an expenditure of the taxpayers' money that would be in the interests of Canada generally.

2. New Brunswick requires no federal backing of its bonds to help finance the development of power on the Saint John River, or the Beechwood development.

3. The federal government will make a decision on whether it should lend financial assistance to resources developments in the Maritimes just as soon as a scheme is submitted to Ottawa that would have economic possibilities and economic results.

J. C. Van Horne (P.C.—Restigouche-Madawaska) enquired as to the attitude of the federal government in regard to the Gordon Commission's recommendations that the government "pay the cost of relocation for people who wish to move away from the neglected Maritime Provinces."

The prime minister jumped to his feet again. He said that his impression of some of the reports made by "several newspapers" on the Maritime aspect of the Gordon Commission report, "is that they are quite inaccurate." (Later he explained to newsmen that he meant they were inaccurate in that they suggested the commission was calling for a mass exodus.)

42 YEARS IN MOVEMENT

Barrie New Leader Of Labor Council

Robert Barrie, for five years president of the old Victoria Trades and Labor Council, Wednesday edged out former Victoria Labor Council secretary Percy Rayment to become the new VLC president.

The vote was 59 to 37. Mr. Barrie, who succeeds Jack MacKenzie, is president of Federal 128, Chemical and Explosives Workers, James Island. Aged 54, he has been associated with the labor movement 42 years. His home here is at 4320 Douglas.

Five were nominated as president but all but two, including Mr. MacKenzie, declined. Successor to Mr. Rayment as secretary is A. W. Toone, president of Local 276, Sheet Metal Workers' International Association.

Tribute, Presentation to Retiring Secretary

Mr. Rayment, secretary since 1949, has left to become full-time business agent for Vancouver Island Civic Employees' Association.

Retiring president, Mr. MacKenzie, in making a presentation of a television set to Mr. Rayment, said "the prestige we (the labor movement) enjoy in this area is due in a large degree to him."

The new president, Mr. Barrie, for the past year has been first vice-president of the 10,000-member VLC.

Elected first vice-president was E. T. Staley, secretary, provincial council of carpenters, who got 52 votes as against his opposition, Ed Haw, IWA secretary, who garnered 36 votes.

There were 96 eligible voters in the Labor Temple meeting representing 44 affiliated organizations.

Mr. Haw drew 50 votes to top Mrs. Betty Graham of the office employees union, who received 46 votes, to take the post of second vice-president.

Elected to head committees were: Legislative, Percy Rayment, with 50 votes; organization, Earl Allen, laborers, with 71 votes; credentials, C. M. Preston, boilermakers, by acclamation; public relations, James Moffat, carpenters, by acclamation; education, Cliff Parker, operating engineers, 51 votes; unemployment, Don Douglas, shipwrights, 52 votes; political action, John Aubrey, retail clerks, 43 votes; sergeant-at-arms, Robert Milliken, teamsters, by acclamation.

Installation of officers was by Tom Gooderham, Vancouver, regional director of the Canadian Labor Congress.

The Labor Council now has 66 affiliated organizations with a membership of 10,818.

Honor Grace Kelly

NEW YORK, Jan. 17 (E.N.)—

According to a report heard over WQXR, the radio station of the New York Times, the Consul General of Monaco reports "the Grace Kelly wedding stamps are completely sold out."—However these stamps may be obtained from the Elmont Stamp Co.

Because the wedding set has evoked a lively interest in stamps of Monaco, Elmont's Paris Office has prepared a collection containing the Grace Kelly set of five, the Prince Rainier enthronement set of six stamps, the Bosio art set and the large sized diamond Olympic set; a total of 22 mint stamps for just $1.00 to introduce Elmont's approval service. U.K. Reported Ready To End Conscription

LONDON (Reuters)—Speculation that Britain is planning further major cuts in defence spending—including a reduction of manpower—became firmer today with reports that conscription will be abolished and replaced with the U.S. system of selective service.

The Daily Herald reports as a fact that "selection by ballot on the American pattern" is one of four new methods of call-up which the new cabinet is considering.

The Conservative Daily Mail banner lines a report that "conscription in its present form is to be abolished," and the new form of selection "is expected to be on the U.S. pattern."

The Herald, which supports the Labor party, comments that "service chiefs now have admitted to the cabinet that the two-year call-up is putting more men into uniform than the armed forces either want or can make use of."

CANADA'S EXPORTS REACH ALL-TIME HIGH

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's exports of newsprint, wheat and oil rose sharply in the first 11 months of 1956 as total shipments climbed to an all-time high. These and other gains boosted total exports to a high of $4,453,300,000 from $3,970,400,000. Imports in those 11 months, however, outpaced exports, climbing to $5,312,000,000 from $4,326,500,000. The deficit—excess of imports over exports—totalled $858,700,000, up from $356,100,000 in 1955.

WORLD'S MOST MODERN

Carrier Bonaventure Joins RCN Fleet

BELFAST (CP)—Capt. Harold Groos, 44-year-old American-born officer, who was educated in Victoria, B.C., whose first Royal Canadian Navy command was a wartime corvette, today took over the RCN's newest and mightiest warship, the aircraft carrier Bonaventure.

Mrs. Ralph Campney, wife of Canada's defence minister, named the ship in a colorful ceremony at the Great Harland and Wolff shipyard where she was built, and then Capt. Groos, who joined the navy as a cadet of 18, read the orders authorizing his appointment to the $28,000,000 ship, and the orders commissioning her.

A military band played God Save the Queen, the navy's white ensign and the Union Jack were hoisted on deck and the 19,000-ton carrier, regarded as the most modern fighting ship of her size in the world, officially became part of the Canadian navy. She is to be based at Halifax after five months of trials in British waters.

Latest developments in carrier techniques have gone into the Bonaventure, including the angled flight deck, mirror landing aids, and the steam catapult.

After extensive working-up trials in United Kingdom waters, the Bonaventure will sail for Canada early next summer.

He is charged only with murder in the death of 81-year-old Mrs. Edith Morrell, a well-to-do widow, in November, 1950, but the prosecution says he also drugged Hullett and Hullett's wife, Gertrude, to death.

Mrs. Hullett, 50, died July 23 last year—four months after the death of her husband.

Miss Temple told the court Adams gave her two prescriptions for dangerous drugs—morphine and barbiturates—to be sent to the Hulletts home.

A stir went around the court when Crown Counsel Melford Stevenson told the justices that Adams on July 18 last year had "disappeared" at the August inquest on Mrs. Hullett's death.

Scotland Yard says that Adams received $1,000 from Mrs. Hullett on July 17—six days before her death.

Doctor Ordered Dangerous Drug Witness Says

EASTBOURNE, Eng. (AP)—A woman druggist testified today that Dr. John Bodkin Adams prescribed dangerous drugs for a wealthy 71-year-old patient who died of an overdose of morphine.

The druggist, Miss Mary Temple, produced a bundle of 20 prescriptions made out by Adams for Alfred J. Hullett between March, 1955, and March, 1956.

Adams, 57-year-old society doctor with a rich practice in this fashionable resort, has been accused by the prosecution of killing three of his patients to profit from their will.

He is charged only with murder in the death of 81-year-old Mrs. Edith Morrell, a well-to-do widow, in November, 1950, but the prosecution says he also drugged Hullett and Hullett's wife, Gertrude, to death.

Mrs. Hullett, 50, died July 23 last year—four months after the death of her husband.

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

By FREEMAN KING

Lt.-Col. R. Girard, district commissioner, will hold a meeting of the district staff, assistant commissioners, district scoutmasters and district scoutmasters at headquarters, 1034 Johnson Street, tonight. The meeting will be in the form of a training session outlining the duty of each section.

Windsor Park "B" Pack: Larry Salmon joined the Pack as a new chum at the regular meeting Tuesday evening. Mrs. Marge Coulter was introduced as the new assistant leader for the Pack.

St. John's Group—A father and son banquet is planned for Friday at 6:30 p.m. in the Church Hall, Balmoral Road.

SPCA Guest List

NEW ARRIVALS: Golden Cocker pup, 2½ months old, found on Ontario Street.

READY FOR ADOPTION: Scamp is a one-year-old male golden spaniel cross. Loves children.

Very quiet, shy and retiring is Nipper, a lovely little Border Collie type. Doesn't seem to like men, and needs lots of affection. Here's an assorted bundle for you—eight puppies from which to choose, six weeks old, lots of Irish Setter in them.

A quiet, dignified type, three years old, is Skip, a black collie cross. Very dependable with kids.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENT The clarinet is said to have been invented in 1690 by Johann Denner of Nurnberg from a primitive reed instrument.

MRS. FITZ FLATS MRS. FITZ, THERE'S NO HEAT IN MY APARTMENT!

OH, DEAR, YOU'D BETTER SEE LINSEED. HE'LL KNOW WHAT TO DO.

BUT WHILE THE KITTEN SISTERS TAUNT AND RAVE, TRACY'S HANDS ARE BUSY.

WHAT THE GIRLS DON'T KNOW IS THAT TRACY CARRIES TWO HANDCUFF KEYS, ONE OF WHICH IS PINNED TO THE INSIDE OF HIS TROUSER WAISTBAND.

AHA! I GOT IT LOOSE! NOW TO GET IT IN THE KEYHOLE!

TO HECK WITH TH' PICTURES, YOU FOOL—RUN!

AROUND HOME

HONEST, POP! I DON'T KNOW IF I WAS A STRANGER! I THOUGHT IT WAS YOU!

MARK TRAIL

PUT WARREN AND THE GIRL IN THE BACK ROOM. I'LL TELL YOU LATER WHAT TO DO WITH THEM!

WILL YOU PLEASE TELL ME WHAT'S GOING ON?

YES, DEEDIE—MY NAME IS STAN WARREN AS MARK TRAIL TOLD YOU...I CHANGED MY NAME AND JOINED THE FUR THIEVES FOR A VERY GOOD REASON!

NO, ELSA, HE DIDN'T CALL ME FOR A DATE.

WHAT? WHY DON'T I GO DOWN TO THE CHOCOLATE BAR AND MAYBE RUN IN TO HIM ACCIDENTALLY?

LOOK, ELSA, I WOULDN'T CHASE A BOY FOR A DATE TO A DANCE—

IF I HAD TO CALL EVERY MEMBER OF EVERY SCHOOL FRATERNITY!

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prize? Then Ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe. Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Denise Metter, 13, Lawrence Harbor, N.J., for the question:

What is an Alloy?

Words have histories and relatives. The word alloy has a very interesting background. It is coined from an older word which means to bind. Its ancestors also gave us a word for friendship. If you guessed that the word alloy is related to the word ally, you are correct. Allies, of course, are bound together by the strongest ties in the world, the bonds of friendship.

We use the word alloy for non-living things that know something of friendship. But it still means ties and binding. An alloy is a mixture of substances bound together to make something new. It is different from each of its ingredients. Bronze is an alloy made from copper and tin melted and cooled together. It is tougher than either copper or tin alone. Tough, shiny brass is an alloy of soft copper and dull zinc.

There are countless alloys in a modern home. Chances are, an aluminum pot is an alloy of aluminum and copper or silicon. For pure aluminum would tend to melt on the job. The alloy is tougher and has a higher melting point than the pure metal. A knife may be an alloy of iron and carbon. For pure iron would soon wear away. Stainless steel may be an alloy of iron, carbon, chromium and nickel.

There may be several ingredients in an alloy. The recipe calls for smelting, or melting them together, and cooling the mixture in just the right way. The process of making an alloy is often one tricky step after another. The ingredients for making our thousands of different alloys are drawn from only about 40 common substances. Some are metals, such as iron and copper. Some are non-metals, such as carbon and silica.

Each alloy has its own special qualities. It may be hard or soft, brittle or bendable. It has its own melting point. When its qualities are known, an alloy is given its own special job to do.

Injured Pedestrian Faces Traffic Charge

VANCOUVER (CP)—A 38-year-old pedestrian injured when struck by a car Tuesday will be charged under a little used section of the Highway Traffic Act for failing to give the right of way.

Police said the man, a resident of a downtown hotel, suffered head lacerations when he ran across the middle of the street.

Police said a similar charge is pending against a 71-year-old woman injured while crossing the street outside a marked crosswalk.
